Leaders Preparing For Battle Royal Over the Budget, Tax Program

The Fiscal and Revenue Producing Measures are Slated to Come Up For Final Action Monday Night or Tuesday.

HOURS FOR BOYS

McNaboe Bill Limiting Hours of Work for Boys to 48 a Week Favorably Reported.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP)—Bitter charges reverberated about New York's legislative halls today as Democratic and Republican leaders prepared for a battle royal next week when Governor Herbert H. Lehman's budget and tax programs come to a vote.

Favorably reported by committees of both houses despite G. O. P. demands that they first be given public hearings, the fiscal and revenue-producing measures are slated to come up for final action Monday night or Tuesday.

Charges of "steamroller tactics which have no place in this state" were hurled by Republican leaders.

"My reaction," said Assembly Minority Leader Irving M. Ives, "is that government by steamroller has no place in this state. I say that matters to be considered by this legislature are entirely too far-reaching to permit a policy of saying 'damn the people—go ahead'."

Speaker Irwin Steigut charged the Republicans with "deliberately fostering a program of opposition, not done in the interests of the state, but for selfish political purposes."

"It is easy for a party to be responsible to attack," he said, "but the people of this state will await a program from the Republicans."

Speaker Steigut said the G. O. P. effort to "delay and hamstring" is "unadulterated political bunk, calculated to give a false impression to those unfamiliar with the true situation."

Meanwhile, Governor Lehman maintained his hands-off policy and refused to comment on the fact that hearings have been denied.

Despite the G. O. P. opposition, Democratic chieftains expect little trouble in passing the $294,000,000 budget program and $385,000,000 revenue bills, including those for $55,000,000 in new and increased taxes.

The Senate is expected to approve both without much ado, but opposition in the lower house may slow up the plan, particularly in respect to the proposed additional one cent levy on gasoline.

Two Democratic leaders, Edwin L. Kantowski and Anthony J. Canney, are known to be opposed to the gas tax, eliminating the majority party's two-vote margin in the Assembly.

BILL Favorably Reported

The McNaboe bill limiting the hours of work for boys between the ages of 16 and 18 years to 48 a week was reported favorably by the Senate Committee on labor and Industry today.

The bill in part of Governor Lehman's labor program and is endorsed by the State Federation of Labor.

The present maximum work week is 54 hours.

The committee also reported the Coughlin bill requiring payment of prevailing wage rates on all public work jobs, also a Lehman program measure. Another program bill reported for the Coughlin bill giving compensation benefits to workers who contract occupational disease.

TEXAS GOVERNOR DECIDES TO INVESTIGATE RACE TRACKS

Austin, Tex., Feb. 7 (AP)—Governor James V. Allred said today he had ordered a sweeping investigation into operations at Texas race tracks of a ring, probably national in scope, purportedly "fixing" races through use of dope and narcotics.

The investigation was started after eight trainers at Alamo Downs, San Antonio race course, were suspended for alleged improper practices.

The governor said that as far as he knew only one Texas track was involved at the present time but he asserted the inquiry would be pursued into operations at all tracks.

Governor Allred said he would send a special message to the legislature today recommending repeal of the law legalizing pari-mutuel wagering on horse races. A bill to repeal the law was reported favorably last night by the house criminal investigations committee.

ATTENDING CONVENTION OF BRICK MANUFACTURERS

New York, Feb. 6—J. Terry of Terry & Ives, and L. J. Rose of Rose Bros., both of Kingston, are in New York attending the annual convention of the Brick Manufacturers Association of America in session at the Hotel New Yorker.

According to Ralph A. Stoddard of Cleveland, secretary of the association, brick manufacturers, whose business fell off nearly 20 per cent in the last four or five years, believe "that the country is on the threshold of a period of building particularly for small homes." He added that home-building construction has been at such low ebb for years that there is a large demand which must be satisfied.

Troopers Find Turner's Body in Esopus Today

Deputy Sheriff Vredenburgh Dragging the Creek with Grappling Hooks Picked up the Body in the Middle of the Stream in About 12 Feet of Water—Rescuers Had Been Searching Esopus Since Tuesday For Second Victim of Auto Mishap.

Kiwanis Votes City Needs Junior High

Members of the Kiwanis Club voted unanimously today that Kingston should have a junior high school provided that "Where ever possible local labor and materials should be employed." In response to a request from members of the Common Council the results of the vote will be sent to the Board of Education and the council. The motion was sponsored by R. Frederick Chidsey and was adopted with enthusiasm and no adverse criticism.

Mayor C. J. Heiselman Calls for Proof of Favoritism in Relief

Replies to Peter C. Fisher's Charge That Many Jobs Now Held on the TERA Are So Held by People That Are Not in Need of Employment.

February 5, 1935.
Mr. Peter C. Fisher, Chairman, Citizen's League, 6 Thomas Street, Kingston, N. Y.

Dear Sir:

Pressing public business has prevented me from answering sooner your published letter of the 21st ult., in which you state that "many jobs now held on the TERA are so held by people that are not in need of employment."

From your own knowledge of the situation you are aware that no one can be so employed, excepting in administrative and supervisory positions, unless their need for relief employment is established after an exhaustive investigation. Men with the largest family budget deficiencies are given work, and in cases where the family is very large, work relief is supplemented by home relief. Cases in lower deficiency brackets are given home relief only. Out of the 1,369 relief families I realize, of course, that some unscrupulous persons might obtain relief who are not entitled to it, but these cases are usually discovered and eliminated. If you, or any other citizen, has knowledge of any family getting relief to which they are not entitled under the law, the Emergency Relief Bureau will be glad to have the information and proper action will be taken.

So far as administrative and supervisory jobs are concerned, I favor and always have favored the employment of relief cases in these positions if persons possessing the necessary qualifications can be obtained from the relief rolls. The local TERA commissioners are aware of my attitude and are in sympathy with it. However, as I explained to you verbally when you were in my office, the investigators, about whom you complained, are required by the State TERA to be college trained. Applications for positions as investigator are filed with the local office, and applicants are interviewed by a district representative of the State TERA, who recommends to the local commissioners who shall be selected. Investigators need not be relief cases. The state is interested in their character, educational background and capacity for the work to be done, and not in their financial resources.

In addition to the local staff of investigators, the relief bureau informed me that there are eight employees of the TERA staff who are not relief cases, and employment of these persons on the basis of experience and qualifications has been approved by the state, which pays 75 per cent of all payrolls.

Out of a total of 516 workers, 48 employees are on what is known as a budget-deficiency-waived basis. This means that, while they are relief cases, they are permitted to earn in excess of their budget requirements because to limit them to their exact budgets would seriously interfere with the operation of the TERA program.

The administration of relief and the operation of a relief organization in these times is one of the most difficult parts of municipal government. A great many criticisms arise because of a lack of public understanding of the difficulties involved, and of the vast number of laws, rules and regulations which govern some of which I personally do not approve.

I can best hope to see my confidence in the integrity of the local Emergency Relief Bureau by seeing that they are carefully following the rules and regulations laid down by the state administration; that they are constantly being inspected, examined, audited and checked by representatives of the state administration, and that I am informed by the state administration that Kingston has one of the best relief administrations in the state of New York.

I am most anxious that the best and humanly possible be done in the administration of relief in this city, and in the operation of the work program. I believe that the relief covered from the Esopus creek this afternoon at 2:20 o'clock, about 15 feet from where the automobile of Floyd Coddington landed Tuesday night when it plunged off of the bridge adjoining the Washington avenue viaduct.

Deputy Sheriff Clayton Vredenburgh, dragging the creek with grappling hooks, picked up the body in the middle of the stream in about 12 feet of water.

The condition of the body, and verdict of the coroner, was unavailable at the time the Freeman went to press.

Rescuers had been searching the Esopus ever since Tuesday night, when Coddington's car plunged 30 feet into the stream off of the bridge. Coddington died at the Kingston Hospital early Wednesday.

Deputies from the sheriff's office, with state troopers, were carrying out a new plan of operation this morning. They went some distance beyond the point below the bridge where the body is supposed to have gone under the ice, and began opening up a channel extending up the creek ad to the open water below the bridge. This was to allow them to move the ice as it is cut away, push it down the stream and permit grappling in the deeper portions of the stream, as well as probing under the ice at each side. The creek down stream, where work of cutting a channel started this morning, is wide and there is said to be comparatively little depth of water at any one place.

Coddington was found slumped in the bottom of his car, following its 30-foot drop to the creek bed, his foot caught in the brake pedal and his head in the water, which was running over the running board of his car. No trace could be found of Turner, who had left Accord with him that afternoon and who had been with him at different places in the city, except that Turner's hat was found in the car, along with new license plates which he had purchased for his father, Preston Turner, of Accord. There was some question as to whether Turner had actually been in the car when it left the bridge. Late Wednesday morning, however, Turner's tortoise shell glasses were found in the water, near where the car struck after its drop from the bridge, and there was little further doubt but that his body had been thrown from the car into the current, which attained considerable force as it heads down into the deeper water below the bridge, and had gone under the ice.

It is still quite a speculation." A moment later, he added:

"We tried to take the company out of politics when we came in."

"Is that why you hired the Democratic secretary of state of New York as soon as you took over?" Vandenberg asked.

"That had nothing to do with it," Manning responded.

Vandenberg identified the New York secretary to whom he referred as Edward J. Flynn.

Manning testified that Tunney represented Bragg and Smith on the board of directors and all the others, including himself, held only nominal amount in their own name and the balance in the Cord Corporation's interest.

No attempt was made to revive the Democratic conservative substitute to slash the $4,000,000,000 work fund in half and confine the measure to direct aid or the "dole." This lost by a tie vote yesterday.

Another amendment adopted today, 13 to 7, provides that all construction work on which skilled labor to the extent of 10 per cent or more was required "shall be performed by contract awarded to the lowest qualified bidder."

At the other end of the Capitol, meanwhile, Speaker Byrne made his opposition clear to any substitution of a dole for the $4,000,000,000 work plan as an action that would "absolutely destroy the fundamental idea of the measure."

100,000 CCC RESERVES
SUGGESTED BY MACARTHUR

Washington, Feb. 7 (AP)—An enlarged reserve force of more than 100,000 partially-trained young men recruited from CCC camps is proposed in a bill now being drafted by General Douglass MacArthur, army chief of staff.

MacArthur's bill, being drawn at the suggestion of the house military committee, would provide for voluntary enlistment of CCC camp graduates for two months intensive military training. After the two months they would revert to inactive status.

There is now no available reserve of men to fill the ranks of the regular army quickly in an emergency. MacArthur told the house committee.

The 100,000 men would not be enlisted all at once, but gradually as they left the CCC camps. The estimated cost of the force, MacArthur reported, is $7,000,000.

A. T. & T. INVESTIGATION APPROVED BY COMMITTEE

Washington, Feb. 7 (AP)—A resolution authorizing an investigation of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company by the Federal Communications Commission was approved today by the House Interstate Commerce Committee.

The measure, by Committee Chairman Rayburn (D-Texas), would direct the commission to look into reasons for what was termed the general failure to reduce telephone rates and charges during the years of declining prices.

It also would investigate the effect of monopolistic control upon the responsibility of telephone rates and charges, upon methods of competition with independent telephone companies and upon the character of telephone equipment.

Munitions Committee Intimates Cord Corp. Acted on PWA Job Tips

Senate Group Suggests Auto Firm Bought Shipbuilding Concern as Speculation on Advice From Washington Contacts.

DENIES ASSURANCE

Senator Clark Asks About Unusual Rise of Stock in August of 1933.

Washington, Feb. 7 (AP)—Intimations were made by Senate munitions committee members today that the Cord Corporation and two Wall Street traders might have bought control of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation soon after President Roosevelt was inaugurated, because they were informed from "Washington contacts" that public works money was to be made available for a naval building program.

The two Wall Street operators, named as Ben Smith and Tom Bragg, were disclosed as having a 50 per cent interest in the New York company and represented on the board of directors by Gene Tunney, former world heavyweight champion.

Earlier, the committee received testimony that two New Jersey ministers who participated in the settlement of the shipyards' strike last spring, had received checks from the New York Shipbuilding Corporation as "appreciation" for their aid.

"It seems to me," Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) said, "that Bragg and Smith must have given you some assurance they would get some public works money."

Chairman Glass (D-Va.) explained this provision, restored at the request of Senator Norbeck (R-S.D.), was put back to permit the purchase or condemnation of certain western lands. Senator Carey (R-Wyo) said the language was needed to carry forward the vast tree shelter belt program from the Canadian to the Mexican border.

The committee did not conclude rewriting the bill, but called another session for tomorrow, when it was expected the work would be finished.

No attempt was made to revive the Democratic conservative substitute to slash the $4,000,000,000 work fund in half and confine the measure to direct aid or the "dole."

This lost by a tie vote yesterday.

Clarence Frechette, 25, alleged to have killed Robert Brown, 25, of Kalamazoo—Sacramento Police Says "Confession" Hints At Trouble Over Girl.

Sacramento, Calif., Feb. 7 (AP)—A murder suspect's 2,000 mile motor ride with the body of his alleged victim was disclosed at a lonely police outpost on the California-Nevada border today and solved the mysterious disappearance of a Kalamazoo, Mich., trucking contractor and his employee.

Clarence Frechette, 25, the driver of the machine, was reported by Capt. Joseph Blake of the California state highway patrol to have confessed he shot Robert Brown, 25, his employer, at Howell, Mich., January 29, and carried the body in the trunk of the machine for nine days.

With the fleeing suspect, when he was taken into custody near Truckee, Calif., were three hitch-hikers, a man, a woman and a little boy.

Captain Blake quoted Frechette as saying Brown was killed after the latter had told of intimate relations with Frechette's "girl friend."

Tells of "Admission."

Brown's purported admission was made nine days ago. Blake quoted Frechette as saying, while the pair were driving from Kalamazoo to Pontiac, Mich., "I knocked him down," the asserted confession read. "He crawled to the car and reached in a pocket and grabbed that gun. He pointed it at me and I grabbed his hand."

CAPITAL NEWS

HOLLISTER, OFFICES, JR.

Albany, Feb. 7 (Special)—In the Senate yesterday action was taken favorably upon a bill introduced earlier in the week by Arthur H. Wicks, of Kingston, which will extend the temporary emergency relief administration for another year, as it was previously scheduled to expire the 15th of this month. The original bill was designed to "relieve the people of the state from the hardships and suffering caused by unemployment", so that extension of time of this organization can readily be welcomed by persons in the state who have not yet been absorbed into employment by the indicated trend of better business. Wicks' bill stipulates for closer cooperation between the TERA and department of social welfare. The popularity of this measure is evidenced by members of both parties as it was rushed through and has been unanimously passed in the upper house.

Another bill was introduced of major importance yesterday by Senator John T. McCall, New York Democrat and chairman of the Senate Banking Committee. Its provisions are drawn to make banks privately owned as safe a place to deposit money as any other banking institution and will give the banking department ample authority to see that all provisions of law regulating such institutions is enforced. This bill has been drafted to protect depositors to the last degree in case of future bank failings. Severe penalties are to be imposed on banks that violate the new provisions, and stringent regulations will be clamped down to better protect persons making investments.

The anger aroused by the refusal of the Democratic majority to grant a public hearing on the budget bill, the three Republican members of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee declined to vote on the question of reporting this bill out of committee. Arthur L. Schwartz, Abbott Low Moffet, and W. Allen Newell are the three who take the stand that because this is the most important bit of legislation of the entire session, involving some $300,000,000 to be expended in public funds, the public has a right to be heard and express their views on these expenditures. They claim that they will be sustained by the people on their attitude and have decided to continue in demanding a public hearing on the budget and accompanying tax bills. There have been hearings before on individual tax bills, but the request for one on the budget itself is an unprecedented move.

Attacking a resolution by Assemblyman Langenbacher which asks for an investigation for the Dairymen's League Co-operative Association, Inc., Fred L. Porter, Essex County Republican, declared that this organization is all that stands between the farmers and complete domination by the large milk companies of the state. In commenting, Porter stated, "The resolution is just about what the farmers of the state can expect from the present setup of the Democratic agricultural committee in the Senate and in the Assembly." He points out that if such a measure were carried it would hand over to the large milk companies the complete business transactions of the league, and permit the huge companies to wage war upon a co-operative movement which has proved its merit for years.

Best shot at the governor's reception: "We won't tell you his name, but one state dignitary, while tripling the high fantastic, lost his patent leather slipper amidst the "pomp" and ceremony of the legislative social gathering.

Both houses yesterday had a short session: The Assembly was convened for 20 minutes, and the Senate an hour.

CROWDS AT GOOD MOVIES.

A newspaper movie critic wrote recently: "There's a curious non-theatre relationship among 'better' pictures. Audiences seeking the cleaner pictures have expanded widely in recent months. They now make themselves 'felt' at the box office."

He then cited three fine pictures showing in his city at the same time, all doing a good business, one of them held over for a second week because of large attendance.

The article made a reader curious.

Turning to the movie ads for the week, the reader found that there was not a single picture at any of the principal theatres advertised for its "daring" or sex appeal or revelations of underworld life or gangster thrillers. There was a mystery picture of the better type, a picture based on one of Barrie's plays, a picture made from one of Dickens' novels, a typical and excellent Will Rogers picture, another stressing catch musical numbers and still another advertised as a great laugh-producer.

It would be a bold critic who would say that if there had been a tremendously sensational picture in one of those theatres it would not have drawn crowds away from the others. But there wasn't. The competition was all among pictures of varying quality, but entertaining and of unquestionable decency. The topnotchers got the biggest crowds, but the others were busy, too. Naturally the audiences seeking good pictures "expanded widely."

EUROPE IN A DAY

Speed is fine for business but bad for romance. This simple truth may occur to anyone who meditates a bit after reading the Howell commission's recommendation that we fling a line of fast dirigibles across the Atlantic. The big idea is that, having lost the race for speed in transatlantic liners, we take to the air and redeem ourselves there. The government proposes that the government build a fleet of Zeppelins and turn them over to private enterprise to maintain a regular passenger service to Europe. It would have the government encourage heavier-than-air craft, too, on both Atlantic and Pacific routes. It would be great. But—

Whether it's worth while to travel regularly in that way depends on how much of a speed-worshipper you are. Civilization has been going speed-crazy. We have come to assume that speed is itself is important. We think so even after we've rushed at break-neck speed for a day or a week to get somewhere, and then find we don't know what to do with ourselves.

All this modern speed does take the romance out of travel. People who rush through everything don't really see anything, don't learn much, don't experience much, don't get the "feel" of the places they visit. What's Europe, if you can get there in a day, or India, if it's a week-end trip? Shall we ever learn to take things easy again, and really come to know distant places and people, and soak into our souls the beauties and wonders we see?

TO DISCOURAGE PERJURY

A Judge in Brooklyn, N. Y., sent a man to jail the other day for perjury. The man owned a restaurant. He had complained that a customer had smashed his windows and threatened further damage unless "brought off." He claimed also that his life had been threatened. When the case came to trial, however, the restaurateur couldn't recall any of these things. His windows had been smashed, but he no longer had any theory about the smasher. Naturally the defendant left the courtroom in freedom.

This sort of thing is what usually happens to racket and sandal cases. Plaintiffs and witnesses lose their nerve or are induced somehow to keep still, and the cases fall through for lack of testimony. Thus racket and vandalism thrive. A week.

few prompt perjury convictions ought to stimulate the giving of evidence, when it exists. That would mean a few successful prosecutions of vandals. That, in turn, would mean a reduction of vandalism. Such measures seem worth trying.

CHILDREN AND GUNS.

Children and shotguns, or firearms of any sort, should be kept apart. It is the only way to avoid such tragedies as the following:

Three little children, two of them visiting in the home of the third, were playing happily indoors when they found a shotgun. It was loaded, and as they scurried over it, the gun exploded, critically wounding the littlest child.

The gun, granting that its owner had a right to it, should not have been loaded and should not have been in a place where it was accessible to children. The children, on the other hand, should have been taught that guns, wherever found, were not playthings.

It has been proved possible, with patience and care, to teach children to look before they cross streets, to let matches alone, and to observe other family rules for their own protection. Accidents involving matches, poisons and firearms seldom occur where parents take proper and adequate steps to prevent them.

MEAT OR EGGS NECESSARY.

Everybody needs some starchy food daily as it is quickly transformed into heat and energy. Nearly every nation eats large amounts of either potatoes, rice, bread, oatmeal or other cereals which serve as a general food standby.

However more than starch is needed if the population of any country is to be kept at its best physically. It is interesting therefore to read a report of that diet of natives of South Africa, written by Dr. E. H. Cluver, Pretoria, in the South African Medical Journal.

It is difficult to secure workers for the hard labor required in the gold mines owing to the poor physical condition of the natives who live almost entirely on the starch food called mealie meal. Employers have to seek natives in other districts. About 25 per cent of the natives sought in other districts are rejected as unfit for the work. Mealie meal is a good food from the standpoint of energy but it lacks the body building qualities of protein food—meat and eggs—and also lacks sufficient vitamins and minerals.

Of the 4,000 calories or heat units of food required daily by these workers mealie meal supplies 2,000 calories or one-half.

The natives that are secured from distant districts arrive at the mines in very poor condition physically from lack of meat and eggs, and with a tendency to scrounging to lack of vegetables and fruits. They leave the mines at the end of their contract period of six months or a year shining with health, although they have been working in an unhygienic industry in a hot moist atmosphere in which sunlight never penetrates.

The reason for their excellent physical condition at the end of six months or a year is due to the carefully thought out articles of diet which are added to the mealie meal as required by government regulations.

The added articles of diet are about half a pound of meat, a quarter pound of beans, half of which must be germinated to produce vitamin C, and about one-third of a pound of vegetables.

The thought then is that when hard work is to be done, in addition to starchy food meat, eggs, milk, cheese or other animal protein is absolutely necessary to maintain the body structure and fruit or vegetables to supply the necessary vitamins and minerals.

Hard work requires protein foods in any country.

A RAPID-FIRE ROMANCE BY EVAN EVANS

SPRINGFIELD, Mass.—Rubrics, the enterprising old town crier, has repaired and repainted for the church the emerald crown of Our Lady, stolen in the first place by the governor. Montana found the key with the rubric, and Rubrics has been tortured him. Rubrics and Rubrics are trying to escape from the enraged fort—and the chances are very slim.

CHAPTER 26
AT THE POSTERN

MONTANA reached the stairs that slanted steeply down through the wall. Someone came running up toward him, almost crashed into him. The soldier jumped back against the wall. "Pardon, senior," he gasped.

Montana went silently past. He was down the second flight of stairs. He was at the entrance to the guardroom. There had been three men in the place when he and Rubrics made their entrance, terrible hours before. There were almost a dozen present now, and there was a captain among them!

From the deep of his throat the Kid summoned a guttural roar: "Attention!" and strode in on the wings of that word.

They came to rigid attention, all of them, their eyes foolishly staring, their arms foolishly stiff at their sides. So the Kid crossed to the door.

"Open!" he thundered.

"But, Excellency—" said the captain.

There was a corporal who heard the word "excellency" and sprang like a frightened rabbit to do the first bidding. He worked feverishly, wrenching back the three bolts. He thrust them so fast and hard that they clanged loudly. The heavy door yawned a little.

"Excellency—" said the captain. "Silence!" roared El Keed.

"Silence is damned!" exclaimed the captain. "What are you and who are you?"

He came striding, with a jingle of spurs, and the Kid leaped through the widening lip of the door.

The light struck at him like a wet black band. He heard, from behind him, a scream of rage and astonishment like the shriek of a woman.

Hard to the left he turned, shedding the encumbering cloak as he ran. Behind him, the arm of light was widening, reaching into the rain of the night. And the guard was pouring out, each man shooting at the brilliant phantom nothingness of the light and the rain.

Then they had sight of Montana to their left, already dim with night and distance, and running straight down the slope towards those willows which stood by the bank of the river. They paused even now to fire a few shots, in hope of good fortune and also to catch the ear of the rest of the fort. Then they burst into pursuit of a fugitive who was already invisible.

The cry came out of the throat of the Kid as he neared the willows. And when he came through them he found the gigantic form of the friar. The Kid leaped on the red mare.

"Take the black and the mare," he commanded. "I have half of the crowd. The soldiers are after me. We must ford the river. Rubrics will never come this way tonight."

They pushed straight out from the trees into the water. The rain sent out of a kind heaven, the same wind and rain that had tortured Montana on the ledge beneath the window, now stormed down in an impetuous well. He could hear gunshots from behind, but he could see nothing. The water rose to his knees. It shamed. He came out on the farther shore, with Brother Pascual beside him.

Had they captured Montana?

Well, at least the curse of the alarm bell was still in his ear, beating on his brain with the impuse to flee as fast as he could. He kept to his steady gait right across the inside parade-ground. He was right at the gate before he was halted.

"Who goes there?"

"Luis Lapa!"

"What's that?"

The door of the room of General Estrada.

"What are you doing with the door of the commander?" asked the lieutenant. He began to laugh as he asked the question.

"I am carrying it," said Rubrics, simply.

"Can you see, are, donkey. But why are you carrying it?"

"I am taking it away," said Rubrics.

"Be patient," said another young officer. "You can see that the man is not right up here."

"Well, these fools! Luis Lapa?"

"Yes, señor."

"Where is your pán?"

"I lost it, my señor."

"Come, come! Simpleton or no simpleton, that won't do here! Where did you lose it?"

Sundown Stories

The Injured Wing

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
IT WAS Mrs. Quacko Duck who helped Top Notch fix Christopher's eye. They rubbed around the eye to bring it back the circulation and color and they put some of Mrs. Quacko's best salve where it was nipped.

Willy Nilly felt quite miserable. He was afraid that Christopher would lose his eye. Why had he been so severe with Christopher?

"I think it's feeling better now. I'm sure it will be all right," cawed Christopher. He was indeed, at times, a mischievous crow, but no one could ever call Christopher Columbus Crow a coward.

Bravely through the pain he kept repeating that he felt better.

"I will be just as ever, even if I do have to lose an eye," said Christopher, and he began walking around to show how well he felt.

But Christopher was not used to seeing out of one eye, and Mrs. Quacko Duck had bandaged up the frost bitten one so he couldn't have seen it had it been all right.

Rip and Top Notch, Mr. and Mrs. Quacko and the other ducks and Willy Nilly all felt a great wave of admiration for their splendid crew, when suddenly there was a bang and Christopher tumbled over, and a rocking chair did too.

No More Piles

Doctor's Prescription Guaranteed

Thousands of pile sufferers do not know that the cause of piles is internal—due to circulation of blood in the lower bowel. This is the scientific truth about piles—the real reason why sores and suppurations do not give lasting relief, why cutting does not remove the cause.

Your itching, bleeding or protruding piles will only go when you actually remove the cause. External treatments can't do this—an internal medicine should be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, sold by good druggists everywhere, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the affected parts.

So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when McBride Drug Stores invite every pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money back if not joyfully satisfied with the help one bottle gives.—Adv.

May Enroll Now In 4-H Gardens

Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 7.—Persons between the ages of 10 and 20 years who live in the rural sections of New York state may enroll for a 4-H Club garden in any county where 4-H Club work is conducted. In the Empire State about 7,000 boys and girls, young men and women, had 4-H gardens last year, says Arthur J. Pratt of the State College of Agriculture.

He points out that these gardens may be used to make money, or to save money and build good health. Commercial vegetables growing is planned for those who wish to grow vegetables mainly for sale, whether through a small roadside stand or on a modern city market.

Four-H Club members are encouraged to take over the family garden and to grow all the vegetables the family needs for direct use from the garden and for canning and storage. Sales from the family garden are made only when there is a surplus.

Vegetables from the home garden or from the commercial vegetable growing project may be shown at the school fair, the county fair, the state fair, or at the winter meeting of the State Vegetables Growers' Association. These exhibits may offer the chance to make extra money and to judge the growers' success in comparison with what other club members are doing.

Besides enrolling in this or other types of work, 4-H Club members usually meet in groups, they select a local leader, elect officers, and include games and songs in their program as well as instruction in their work. Those interested in the 4-H garden may consult the county 4-H agent for further details. The Ulster county agent is B. D. Joy, 74 John street, Kingston.

Expression of the Emotions

Dr. Walter B. Cannon, physiologist of Harvard, shows in a profound research article in the Scientific Monthly that many of the emotional manifestations such as rage, laughter, hunger, disgust, etc., are common to all races.

Darwin showed that animals express these emotions in the same way. We may not understand a word a savage says, but as Doctor Cannon points out, we can readily tell whether he is angry or friendly. The expression of the emotions in one language that is common to man and beast.

Bruno's Family

Madagascar Island

Madagascar is the third largest island in the world, and one not very well known to travelers. Over 1,000 years ago there were Arab settlements here and Dingo Diaz visited the island in 1520. In 1816 France assumed control and the island is administered by a governor-general. The predominant tribe here—the Hovas—resemble the South Sea Islanders.

SAYS BRUNO 'GENTLEMANLY'

Denying Bruno Richard Hauptmann ever was other than "gentlemanly and honorable" towards her, Mrs. Greta Henckle took the stand at Hauptmann's trial. She exchanged smiles with the defendant, chewed gum and answered questions "uh-huh," "yep" and "hops." She said Hauptmann used to come to her house for coffee. When Mrs. Henckle left the stand, Hauptmann smiled broadly. She is shown in a posed photograph just before she testified. (Associated Press Photo)

The Red-Headed Understudy Became a Star!

There had just been an accident. The leading lady was injured. It was nearly curtain time... the first night! And the red-headed understudy had to "go on"... with no make-up!

She had forgotten to bring her own make-up materials. There was no make-up for her type back-stage. She had the jitters! But, she became a star that night... with an assist from a Whelan Drug Store across the street.

A veteran stage manager had kept his wits about him. A hurry call. And the Whelan store manager had dashed across Broadway... with make-up for a red-headed actress. And... the curtain went up on time!

The store manager's part in this little drama was played in accordance with the true spirit of Whelan SERVICE. Every Whelan sales person is taught to give friendly, interested, personal SERVICE. Good service is as important in our organization as our low prices, quality merchandise and spic-and-span stores.

Stephani Will Is Twice Attacked

Dannemora, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP)—The strange will left by Alphonse Stephani, wealthy Dannemora state hospital inmate who died February 1, was attacked from two fronts today.

In Hollywood, Cal., Frederic Stephani, German Baron and World War ace, prepared to test the legality of the document, leaving a small fortune to Frankfort-on-Main, Germany. He claims he is a cousin of the New York state Stephani.

In Plattsburgh, where Stephani's body, "wrapped in a blue blanket," rests in the receiving vault of a cemetery, a dispute over probating the will arose.

Surrogate Charles M. Harrington issued a statement in which he contended the Frankfurter bank could not act as executor of the will. He said the probating of the will is under the jurisdiction of Clinton county.

Stephani, wealthy son of a Philadelphia wine merchant, killed Clinton G. Reynolds, New York lawyer, 44 years ago. He was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment.

In 1901 he was declared insane and transferred to Dannemora. There in 1917 he wrote his will, leaving his $250,000 estate for the welfare of the people of Frankfort-on-Main or Hornborg Von Der Hoe-

Sinus Trouble Distressed Her

One druggist has a prescription that affords a healing stimulant that aids nature to keep sinus drainage clear.

This prescription, used by thousands, is known as SINASPIRET.

Used as directed in the upper nasal passages, it relieves symptoms of fulness, aches and pains, and gives relief of more severe sinus trouble—your pharmacist knows this.

Needless to say Sinaspiret is a splendid physician's wash when nostrils are clogged with catarrh or filled with mucus resulting from common colds.—Adv.

Here's a home frock with lines that are most flattering to the bneider figure. And just take a peep at the small dia gram, how utterly simple it is to make it.

One of the new-looking linen-like cottons made the model pictured with crisp white organdy frills.

Style No. 2854 is designed for sizes 27, 33, 41, 43, 45, 47, 49 and 51 inches bust. Size 27 requires 3 1/4 yards of 35-inch material with 1/2 yard of 36-inch contrasting fabric.

Send TEN CENTS (10c) in stamps or coin (coin is preferred) for PATTERN. Write plainly NAME, ADDRESS AND STYLE NUMBER. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE YOU WISH.

The smartest, latest coiffure may look well on one woman and be entirely "out of character" for another. Before you try it, study your own requirements in a hairdresser, decide whether such a coiffure will frame your face more attractively than the one you now use.

Green Wool Coat

This coat is tailored in a wide, bright green wool. The shoulder line goes diagonally to the front, and the high hemmed collar at the back makes it suitable for large shoulders as well as small.

Mombasa, East Africa
The older part of the Kenya colony was administrative center of British East Africa in Mombasa, a small town just below the port. The Mombasians are a heterogeneous people with their half-Arabs, half-Africans, Indians. BARBARA BELL FASHION PATTERNS

Pattern No. 1587-B

Separate Blouse and Skirt for the Larger Woman

The smartest two-piece costumes imaginable are being developed by linking stunning looking blouses up with straight-line skirts of smart, dark colors. The two separate garments featured in today's pattern give some idea how chic a matron can appear when her clothes are chosen with taste and discrimination.

Necklines have a lot to do with making heavy types look and feel attractive. The one sketched is unusually good for mature figures. The revers are shaped with the idea of giving an effect of height to the figure. They stop at the waistline where peplums are attached to give the hips a trim, well-fitted appearance.

Darts provide ease above the busts, and simple set-in sleeves express the current trend in blouses for large types.

Slim, straight lines, with pleats back and front, is the rule to follow in choosing a separate skirt.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1587-B is designed in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48. Size 38 requires 1 1/2 yards of 54 inch material for skirt; 5 1/2 yards of 36 inch for blouse. (Order pattern by bust measure.)

Tomorrow: Chic town frock for small women.

PATTERN 5296

Can't you picture this lovely quilt, Flower of Spring, with the flower in white, peach or pale yellow on a light green or blue background? Aside from being a simple block to piece, it makes a quilt that has much pictorial value. The flower is the anemone that comes in such a variety of colors and is one of the choicest of the Spring flowers.

In pattern 5296 you will find the Block Chart, an illustration of the finished block in actual size, showing contrasting fabrics; accurately drawn pattern pieces; an illustration of the entire quilt; three color schemes; step-by-step directions for making the quilt, and exact yardage requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 16 cents in stamps or coin (coin is preferred) to the Kingston Daily Freeman Household Arts Dept., 259 W. 14th street, New York, N. Y.

Events Around The Empire State

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP)—Beth T. Cole of Catskill and Albany today is the new grand scribe of the grand chapter, Royal Arch Masons. He was installed with other new officers yesterday. Officers are: Grand high priest, Frank E. Woodruff, Brooklyn; deputy high priest, George E. Francis, Rochester; grand king, Carl G. Wilhelm, Bayside, L. I.; grand captain of the host, R. Pearson Bowles, New York city; grand principal sojourner, Charles J. Wells, Syracuse and grand royal arch captain, George Rosendale, New York city.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP)—Little water was flowing over the American falls here today as the result of an ice blockade in the Niagara river.

Ice in the river channel between Luna and Goat islands checked the flow of water over the "bridal veil" yesterday to a mere trickle. The prospect of warmer weather presaged a return to normal flow.

Lockport, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP)—Going over the heads of this city's police commission, Mayor Henry F. Thurston, today was in active command of the police department.

Mayor Thurston's action followed charges preferred against Chief William A. Burbank at the commission's meeting Monday night. The commission promised to make an inquiry in the chief's office but refused to suspend him, and yesterday Mayor Thurston took charge.

First Known Panics

The first depression to be chronicled as such by history occurred in the year 33 A. D. more than 1,900 years ago, notes the Detroit Free Press. In Rome, the Acta Diurna daily paper posted in the Forum, carried alarming notices of bank failures. The Roman senate was debating back-to-the-farm movements. The soldiers wanted their bonuses, too, and a great issue was raised. Finally the senate decreed that two-thirds of each capital's fortune "should be invested in lands within Italy. Taxes went up and the panic was on."

OPTOMETRY

Tiny brother has on a manish little model of green cashmere tweed in a double-breasted effect. The self-trimming at the high buttoned collar is repeated in the panel at back. The matching hat with a football crown has a stitched brim and soft trimming.

Fabrics are interesting with multi-colored tweeds, cashmere surfaces, darker green velvet collar and dark and fine nubby effects. High shades green buttons give a nice contrast and dusty pastels are favored, with two flap pockets and the belted back navy blue, of course, far in the lead.

The little girl above wears an adorable coat set—very simple in cut, yet it wears a raff-rah hat of the same last word in style. It is of raspberry material.

Glare, eyestrain, uncorrected optical defects cause headaches—our corrected glasses relieve.

Lights of New York
by L. L. STEVENSON

Once more, an attempt is being made to do away with the Tombs. Should the plans for a skyscraper combination jail and criminal courts building go through, the most famous prison in the country would disappear. Gray, silent,ullen with a Bridge of Sighs connecting it with the red brick Criminal Courts building, the Tombs has been condemned repeatedly. Built at a time when the city had a population of but 2,500,000, the prison, because of overcrowding, has been held to be a school for crime. Also, it has been held a menace to health of prisoners. That, however, did not give the prison its name. Away back in 1835, John L. Stevens came home from Egypt and published a book about his travels. On the cover was the picture of an Egyptian tomb. That inspired the architecture for the prison, which was opened in 1838. It also gave it a name that was passed on to its successor.

Originally, the site of the Tombs was a body of fresh water known as Collector's pond. William IV of England, came very nearly losing his life there when he was the duke of Clarence. As a young naval officer, he visited New York and went skating on the pond along with the bluffs of the city. The ice broke and the duke sank. Julian C. Verplanck, a prominent citizen, fished him out and saved him to become king. Some time later—in 1808—it was decided to fill in the pond, but not because of the ducal drowning. The country was suffering from a depression and idle workmen marched to the city hall with a plea for jobs. The petition in boats was headed and filling the pond made work. If a new prison is built, the money will come from PWA funds.

In the old days, all the hangings were at the Tombs. Owners of nearby buildings that commanded a view of the courtyard reaped quite a harvest by charging $5 for a place at a window. The prison had but 148 cells, and as the city grew, conditions approached those of the old Bridewell. Nothing was done until 1801 when Mayor Strong, a reform candidate was elected. The present structure was completed in 1803. Behind it, however, are two old cell blocks that were built in 1805. The Tombs has housed many notable prisoners and there have been some sensational escapes. In November, 1822, three desperate prisoners attempted a break in which they killed the warden. Two of the prisoners, their attempt having failed, shot themselves and the third was killed by officers. As was the case in the time of hangings, all nearby windows were filled with spectators. So far as is known, no fees were collected, however.

Another famous structure slated to go, if the new prison and courts plan is accomplished, is the old county courthouse in City Hall park, a gray stone structure familiarly known as the Tweed courthouse. It was built during the regime of Boss Tweed and put a tidy sum into the pockets of the ring. The original cost was estimated at $250,000; but by the time it was completed, it cost the taxpayers $12,000,000. One plasterer was "paid" $128,387 for two days' work; the total bill for plastering having been $2,370,000. One carpenter was "paid" $100,000, and enough of the most expensive carpet in New York was bought to cover City Hall park three times. There were also cupids at $175 each.

Removal of the old Tweed courthouse, once used for the county courts and now for the municipal courts, would further the restoration of City Hall park to its original dimensions, and would carry out the plan of the municipal center in Foley Square to the north. The old Municipal Courts building was torn down some time ago and in time the old post office building, just south of the park, will also go. And none will regret the passing of that landmark.

Shepherd Tends Sheep; Cost Lower Than Feed

Floyd, Ark.—There was a time when shepherds tended their flocks generally, but not until recently was it done here. E. D. Hutchison, local farmer, had near 40 head of sheep, more than he could feed and pasture. A shepherd was employed to tend the flock in the Red Bluff and they are hayed well and vicinity at a lower cost than for feed. Since the advent of fall rains the stock has been returned to their regular pastures.

To Make Garden of Eden Bloom Again

London.—The Garden of Eden is to bloom again after centuries of desert-like aridity. A team of London engineers is working the romantic project which at an estimated cost of $2,000,000 will transform the present barren wastes of the traditional site of the Biblical garden in Asia Minor into a luxuriantly flowering land. Plans will see a giant dam across the River Tigris. By controlling the flow of the Tigris, engineers expect to irrigate the land so it will again be productive.

As soon as the spring floods have subsided, work on the dam will begin. The whole project will take three years to complete.

It is doing the little "extras," the things we're not asked to do—the favors that help one's brother to trust in God and you; It is doing, I say, the "extras," the things not looked for, you know. That will bring us our King's kind notice—a "welldone," as we go.

Wife (reading)—It says here a well-dressed man should have at least 18 suits.

Hubby—Huh! Then I must be a sick unto death dressed man with only one lone threadbare suit.

The Colors of a Man. He's blue when loyal. He's purple when angry. He's yellow when cowardly. He's red when embarrassed. He's white when he's straight. He's green when he's ignorant. He's colorless when he's uninteresting.

Hubby—Well, dear, how are you getting on with your golf lessons?

Wifey—Pretty well, but when the professional told me to address the ball I just couldn't think of a word to say.

The way to judge your ideas and methods is to look around and see how far they have brought you.

Youth—Darling, do you think you could manage to live on $20 a week?

Sweet Young Thing—Yes, a week—but not much longer.

Responsibility is put on the shoulders of those who can bear it.

Man—Lend me $5, old man. I promise you, on the word of a gentleman, to pay you back tomorrow.

Friend—Bring the gentleman around and let me see him.

In trying to improve, one may become discouraged by attempting to do too much at one time.

Druggist (to farmer's wife)—Do you have a hog called on your farm?

Farmer's Wife—Yes, the dinner bell.

Sometime we would like to hear the officiating clergyman vary the form by announcing: "I now pronounce you man and wife—and may the best man win."

Mrs. Smathers—When you have a quarrel with your husband do you threaten to go home to your mother?

Mrs. Kramer—No, indeed, I threaten to have mother come here.

Aunt Mary Fielderush of Pea Ridge says that many a girl is single because she couldn't stay awake while a man talks about himself.

Young Man—She certainly is polished—doncha think so?

Girl Friend—Yeah. Everything she says, casts a reflection on some one.

When a girl gets a proposal of marriage nowadays she wants to know if her young man can support her parents in the manner in which they are accustomed.

Little Norman (as he saw his mother sterilizing the dishes that its plot and fortunately it has them from the sick room)—What are you doing that for, mother dear?

Mother—Because, darling, your Anita Louise, Ricardo Cortez, cast as an actor, attempts to ensnare a married woman into a carefully baited love trap. Falling in this, Cortez turns his attention to the woman's daughter with the young girl finally caught in the web. She is extricated when Cortez is killed.

This is adult drama, forceful and brilliantly done. "Mystery Woman" tells the oft told story of a clever girl who uses her beauty and brains to get the things she desires. This mystery woman plays about with two of the most dangerous men in the world and wins out after much excitement. Melodrama, pure and simple, with Mona Barrie, John Halliday and Gilbert Roland.

Broadway: "The County Chairman". After sparring around with all manner of movie plots and characters, Will Rogers surprised many of his critics with a thorough skill for acting in the recent "Judge Priest". Instead of his usual grimes, awkward postures and hayseed philosophy, the great man went in for acting and did an exceptional job. All of which leads up to the fact that his latest picture, "The County Chairman", is far and away the finest thing he has given the screen, a mellow, heartwarming story of a county politician and his troubles in keeping his candidate in the race to seek an office against his will. A romance runs through the show too, a double romance that tells of a boy's love for a girl, and an older love story that tells of bumptious and forgiveness. So Rogers has the play back to Kingston audiences that the Broadway has been forced to hold the show over through Friday of this week. Gay with humor and rich with character acting by such skilled transports as Stepin Fetchit, Louise Dresser and Burton Churchill, this picture is family entertainment on a large scale. Kent Taylor, Evelyn Venable and Mickey Rooney are also in Mr. Rogers' cast of supporting players.

Orpheum: "Ladies Should Listen" and "Human Side". Gary Grant, Edward Everett Horton and Preston Foster head the players in the opening feature, a comedy romance that describes the doings of a Puritan teacher and his amateur comedies with the ladies. Gary Grant gives a superb performance in this one. "Human Side" is the story of a dam-diplomas. An unusual and wholly impossible love story is woven into the structure of the show, but it doesn't do any harm. One of the best parts about this play is the brilliant work of the bit players. Loretta Young and John Boles head the list of featured artists. "Tombstone Terror" is an added feature with Bob Steele in the hero role.

Kingston: "She Had to Choose" and "Murder in the Clouds". A couple of "quicker" are to be seen on the double feature at the Kingston. Fuzzy Knight, Sally Blane, Regis Toomey, Buster Crabbe and Isabel Jewel are to be seen cavorting in the first one, a story of youth, love and scrambled affections with nothing original or out of the ordinary to shout it a work of art. "Murder in the Clouds" completes the bill with Ann Dvorak and Lyle Talbot co-featuring in an airplane yarn that takes murder into the skies for a new sort of thrill. There are numerous melodramatic moments and plenty of excitement in this thriller.

"Ambulance Chasing" Bill.

Albany, N.Y., Feb. 7 (AP)—A bill designed to end "ambulance chasing" today had the endorsement of the assembly codes committee. The committee turned it over to the assembly where it is expected stiff fight will be made against it. It was sponsored by Assemblyman Michael Delagi, Bronx Democrat.

Prof. Edward T. Thorndike of the Alaska Teachers college estimates that knowledge of 10,000 "word meanings" is the minimum requirement for a student graduating from the ninth grade if he is to read comprehendingly of present day world events.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Dancing on clouds is, in the movies, no mere figure of speech. Some half a hundred chorines can testify that it is all wet.

"Rhythm in the Rain" is a spectacular number in Maurice Chevalier's new musical "Folies Bergere." They get rhythm, and they get rain, and they put both—with the chorines—in one o' Hollywood's most fantastic sets.

Between cloud-banks (painted on sheets of tinted glass) are runways rimmed in red, electric lighting belts. The girls in tight-fitting black one-piece costumes, with black feathered hats, do a routine on the zigzag floor. They carry parasols, black outside, silvered within.

Blown Off Perches

To an obligato of wind and thunder they sing and dance, until the wind—from huge machines—blows them off their perches to disappear in the clouds. Umbrellas collapse, of course, and they land—it is to be hoped—on concealed mattresses.

In this sequence the girls stay dry. The rain falls between them and the camera. But the rest of the set explains the emergency-hospital atmosphere of the round stage. Against the background of a huge semi-circle of "rain"—slumbering strands of patent paper—the girls dance under the drenching downpour from overhead rainpipes. The black foot is blocked off to form a pool, and they keep on dancing in the pool. Between takes there are 50 shivering, soaking girls each needing immediate drying.

Army Of "Dryers"

There are three nurses in attendance on the set. A dozen hairdressers rescue water-logged coiffures. A dozen women stand by with towels and wraps to dry and cover feminine gooseflesh. Electric hairdryers work overtime. Gallons of hot coffee flow freely.

Dance Director Dave Gould bad 75 girls in his chorus at the beginning of the picture. Other rigorous routines before this one, combined with the dreary prospect, had cut his chorus to 54.

Not "drink and the devil," but cold feet—literally and figuratively—had done for the rest. Either their strength, or their trouping, couldn't "take it."

Spangles and Glitter Cheer Mrs. Dionne

Chicago, Feb. 7 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Dionne got their wish—they visited a night club.

From the glitter of the floor show to the champagne corks that popped in their honor, the Dionnes, to whom the work brought five-fold fame, seemed to relish their first venture not among the bright lights.

It was after 3 o'clock when the Dionnes went back to their luxurious suite in a Michigan avenue hotel. No spangled evening frock for Elizire Dionne, the famous mother, on her first "night out." She wore a simple dark silk dress and a dark mink coat.

It was the floor show that seemed to strike the most amusement from the Canadian visitors. The dazzaled them speechless for a few moments. Then Papa Dionne expressed himself volubly; Mama Dionne more quietly in her French patois.

Earlier, Mrs. Dionne gave some advice about the rearing of children. "I do not spoil my children by always giving them their own way," she said, calling attention to her five children who have not been as widely publicized as her famous quintuplets. "When my babies didn't behave, I gave them one 'fesse'—a little spank. Not a hard one, but enough to make them understand."

QUESTION BOX By ED WYNN... The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I am a drinking man, but my wife made me sign a pledge that I would not take a drink of whisky for one year. Gee! I'm dying for a drink. What shall I do?

Yours truly,

A. LUSH.

Answer: Buy a ticket for the Odion Gheater and go to see the show and at intermission it will be perfectly all right for you to take a drink. Your pledge is only for one year and the play you are going to see has two acts and three years elapse between the first and second acts.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
Am writing to you as I know you are a dear friend of my father. You, of course, remember what a great place he has always been. Well, yesterday he put a bottle of Scotch whisky on a table, stood off about ten feet, took out his revolver and shot at the bottle of Scotch six times without hitting it. What do you think of that?
Truly yours,

WILLIE M. PROUVE.

Answer: Knowing your father as I do, I can really say it is astounding. In fact, it is the first time I have ever known your father to miss a drink.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I am a girl fourteen years of age, going to school. I failed in my English test because in one sentence I had the three words HE AND PRUNES. Can you tell me what is wrong in placing these three words together?
Yours truly,

I. FLUNKED.

Answer: Your teacher was right in giving you a bad mark for connecting the three words HE AND PRUNES. The first book of English tells us that "prunes" is a noun and should only be used in boarding houses, while the word "AND," unlike an adverb is a conjunction. In your example you have used the conjunction "AND" to connect the word "prunes," which is a noun, with the word "HE." The word "HE" is a personal pronoun at all times, except when used for laughing purposes, like HE-HE-HE.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I am a little girl nine years of age. Go to Sunday school every Sunday. I have some lessons to do for next Sunday; one question I can't answer. Will you answer it for me? The question is, "What did Noah say when he heard the storm approach?"

Sincerely,

JMA KIDD.

Answer: Everybody should know those famous words. When Noah heard the storm approach he put his hands behind his ears and he said: "Arf! Arf!"

WWD Service.

Use of Word "Cashier"
The word "cashier" with the sense to dismiss from a position of command or authority; to depose; is used in the army and navy, involving disgrace and permanent exclusion from the service," says Literary Digest, is not of recent vintage. It was used several times by Shakespeare, and was commonly understood in 1600.

Not So Dumb
Although the movie weighs a half ton he is very light-footed and white. He appears extremely clumsy with his big, ungainly head, towering shoulders and very bony, he can stalk through thick undergrowth without so much as cracking a twig.

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do things you want and at the same time there's the need of having a shallow complexion—dark spots under your eyes—gumption—bulldog looks in your face—all eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you safely per cent of all sickness comes from inactive nerves.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for cod-liver oil to act on the intestine, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are similar to their parent product, differing only in being sweetened with natural flavorings which are derived entirely by the process of steaming.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known to many other cities. 125, 250, 500, 1000, 1500.

FLASHES OF LIFE SKETCHED IN BRIEF

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Never Too Late

Pittsburgh—Mrs. Sophia Zove of Marianna has decided she wants to live her second century as an American citizen.

Although 102 years old, she applied for first naturalization papers today. It will take two years to get final papers.

"I'll be there to get them," she told admiring friends.

Mrs. Zove stated she was born December 10, 1832, in Nudlock, Austria, and came to the United States when 65.

Age Doesn't Tell

Weston, W. Va.—Dr. M. S. Holt, a mere 82, will run for reelection as mayor, placing his name on the ballot as an independent. He was first elected when voters wrote his name on their ballots.

Dr. Holt is the father of Rush D. Holt, United States senator-elect who cannot take his seat yet because he is too young.

Old Trick, New Style

Columbus, S. C.—"Pretty white snow" on the refrigeration pipes of the Baptist Hospital looked so good to Woodrow Peterson, 17-year-old attendant, that he decided to taste it.

He placed his tongue on a pipe and it froze fast. The pipe was defrosted to free him.

The Crown Jewels

Chicago—The "Russian crown jewels" are being sold in Chicago so often the police are getting annoyed.

Mrs. Minnie Iken bought them yesterday for $4,800. An appraiser said they were made of glass and had a value of $150.

Mrs. Elizabeth Wolkenstein bought some similar stones the other day for $856.

The police believe the same gang of swindlers was responsible.

End of the Inferno

Urbana, Ill.—It's heavenly for University of Illinois freshmen on the campus from now on.

Last vestiges of the Dantean inferno, long on the wane, disappeared when the inter-fraternity council put its official ban on "Hell Week" initiations for pledges to fraternities.

"All physical torture and discomfort" shall be discontinued, said the council, thus ending an old tradition of "eating off the mantelpiece" after initiation week.

Costly Move

Baltimore—A jury awarded Florence Lucarelli $500 because moving men left a two-story house in front of her store.

The house, it was testified, was left when it reached there because the movers learned that the foundation on which it was to be placed was not completed.

In County Granges

Stone Ridge

Stone Ridge held its regular meeting on Monday, February 4. A small group of hardy members braved the weather to enjoy a pleasant evening together.

The Grange was host at a very successful "Community Frolic" on January 25. A silver collection amounting to $17 was taken during the evening. The service and hospitality committee reported a sum of over eight dollars for the sale of refreshments.

The members are anxiously awaiting the outcome of an attendance contest which closes on March 4. The total scores at the last meeting were "Giants" 49, and "Dwarfs" 47.

A Penny March has been adopted to help with the expenses of the lecturer's work.

The program for the evening was composed of love songs, sentimental poems and "hearty" games appropriate for St. Valentine's Day. Refreshments were served by an efficient committee from Cottrell.

An old-fashioned social is being planned for the next meeting, February 18. Old-fashioned and colonial costumes will be in order and everything will be done in the good old-fashioned way. A prize will be given to the man and woman wearing the best old-fashioned costumes.

Games that mother and dad used to play, songs of long ago and a spelling match will be some of the interesting features. Grange members may bring their families to share in the evening's fun.

ESCAPE FROM THE "COLD" GANG

Sneeze . . . one, two . . . cough and cough . . . get another handkerchief . . . through the dreary winter months, the "cold" gang drags its way.

Does winter sentence you to months of misery? Throw off the chain of colds—by building resistance with Nature's cold-fighters, vitamins A and D.

McKESSON'S VITAMIN CONCENTRATE TABLETS or Cod Liver Oil provide plentiful supplies of both these protective vitamins, as well as calcium and phosphorus to help build a strong body.

Each tablet brings you all the vitamins in one teaspoonful of U. S. P. X. (revised 1934) Cod Liver Oil. They will help you to escape the millions of cold germs, and bring you new vigor and strength. Get them at any reliable drug store. One dollar for each bottle of 100 McKESSON'S VITAMIN CONCENTRATE TABLETS. Begin today!

Dr. L. H. Van den Berg
Stresses Importance
Of Education Today

Principal of New Paltz Normal in Talk at Rotary Luncheon Cities Changes That Have Taken Place at The Normal in Recent Years. Dr. L. H. Vandenberg, principal of the Normal School at New Paltz, was the guest speaker before the members of Rotary in the Governor Clinton Hotel Wednesday noon, and his talk stressed the importance of education as well as its advancement and progress. The speaker invited the members of Rotary to visit the New Paltz Normal School, saying that 43 Kingston men and women were in training there in the student body which numbers 600 prospective teachers.

Many changes have taken place at New Paltz during the past three and one half years, explained Dr. Vandenberg. New buildings have been added, and a more rigorous entrance examination is required. High school students can no longer enter the institution through the mere formality of presenting a high school diploma. Requirements today necessitate certain standards of excellence in high school gradings and all who enter New Paltz must pass a general intelligence examination. This, stated the speaker, had done much to eradicate those who have no aptitude for teaching. Before these requirements were put in effect, between 40 and 50 students were asked to leave the school because of inability to apply themselves to the training process or because their grades were too low. This year, to prove his point, the speaker stated that only six or seven would be asked to leave the institution, with not one member of the Senior Class in that list.

Education, continued Dr. Vandenberg, has undergone vast changes during the past few decades. "When we went to school," explained the speaker, "our knowledge was taken from books. It was purely a factual type of knowledge, but today educational methods have changed. Students have a wider and more varied field to work in, plus the added advantage of more modern and scientific methods."

Despite the chaos of the past few years, it was the speaker's contention that the educational system in the United States has not suffered from its effects. He gave as his reasons the fact that the American educational system is so well organized and trained that it could go through the turbulent period of the past few years without undermining its structure.

FERNONTES REPORTED AT MARTIAL ODDS AGAIN

Naples, Italy, Feb. 7 (AP).—The mid-ocean reconciliation between Mr. and Mrs. Enzo Fernmonte appeared today to have soured again.

The couple, who embarked on the Roma from New York ten days ago, arrived in Italy by widely separated routes. Mrs. Fernmonte, the former Mrs. Madeline Force Astor Dick, was still on board the Roma when it docked here.

Her ex-prime husband sailed into Genoa on board the Dutch liner Christian Huygens from Algeria.

The Roma's purser said the reconciliation at sea brought about through his intervention after Mrs. Fernmonte spent the first four day out in her cabin lasted just two days. The interlude of peace, he said, then ended in a "bust up."

Other officers on the liner said the Fernmontes quarreled frequently.

Before Fernmonte changed ships, one officer said, he announced he wished to hear no more of his wife.

Another suggested, however, that Fernmonte's unusual peregrinations may have been prompted in part by fear of legal complications in Italy where his former wife now lives in Rome.

Italian laws do not recognize the divorce the former boxer obtained abroad. While he was aboard the Roma, Fernmonte expressed the hope he would be able to see his son by his previous marriage while he is on the continent.

Inquiries at the home of the first Mrs. Fernmonte elicited the information she had left last night with her son for Florence after receiving word of a sister's illness.

Fernmonte's mother, who also lives in Rome, suggested jealousy might be partly to blame for the disension between her son and his present wife. The present Mrs. Fernmonte, she said, fears her husband is coming to Rome to effect a reconciliation with his first wife.

Ascension Church School
West Park, Feb. 7.—The Ascension Church Sunday school meets every Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the parish house. The Rev. S. G. Dunseath is the superintendent. Mrs. A. L. LeFever and Miss Hilda Oberle are the teachers. Refreshments are served for the children as soon as they arrive. Residents are asked to send their children to the school.

Perrine, One of Civil War Trio, Is Dead

Port Ewen Civil War Veteran Succumbs to Pneumonia—Was One of Three Veterans Living in Ulster County.

Silas W. Perrine, one of the remaining three Civil War veterans in Ulster county, died Wednesday in Port Ewen following an attack of pneumonia. He was almost 90 years old at the time of his death.

Mr. Perrine was known for his inexhaustible fund of amusing stories connected with the Civil War, one of the more prominent ones being concerned with his own actions as a youth who had been ordered to call "halt" three times if there was no response "to fire." While on duty one evening, he recalled that he heard a rustle in the brush, called the disturber to "halt" three times who disobeyed and on the third command blazed away. That evening the regiment dined on a luscious roast pig.

Funeral services for Mr. Perrine will be private. Military ritual will be tendered by representatives of Kingston Post, No. 150, American Legion, a firing squad and bugler. Interment will be in Port Ewen cemetery.

Mr. Perrine had resided in Port Ewen for 58 years, prior to which he had lived in Rifton, where he was on February 18, 1848. He was employed for many years as a stationary engineer in several brickyards in this vicinity.

His club affiliations included membership in Pratt Post, G. A. R., Hope Lodge, 55, Knights of Pythias, and Port Ewen Fire Department.

Surviving are his wife, who was Mrs. Emma Munson prior to her marriage to the deceased; two daughters, Mrs. Jennie DeWitt of Florida, and Mrs. Emma Van Wagonen of New York city and one son, Joel H. Perrine, of Kingston.

American's Death
Probed at Madrid

Madrid, Feb. 7 (AP).—The mystery surrounding the death of an American at Granada was heightened today by conflicting ideas of the man's identity and the manner of his death.

United States consular authorities were trying to clear up both problems.

Municipal court attaches said the dead man was Philip Bower Parker, 29, a New York painter. The owner of the boarding house where the man was found dead said he was Phillip Bauber Parker, 39, a mural painter of San Diego, Cal.

This latter name and address is probably correct as many officials in the small towns are inclined to register all Americans as being "from New York" unless the American concerned specifies forcefully the exact name of his home town. On the other hand, the keeper of the boarding house, "The Modern Pension," has the register as evidence.

Parker was found dead in the pension yesterday, wearing a cotton mask over his face. Beside him lay an empty pistol. "Physicians" said he had committed suicide but an autopsy will be performed in an effort to determine the cause of his death.

Municipal court attaches said the man was tall and well dressed in a gray suit with a blue overcoat. He arrived in Granada only four days ago, they said. He left about 48 pesetas—about $5.40—with which the authorities will buy a wooden coffin in which to bury the body.

Southern Ulster Club Seeks New Members

West Park, Feb. 7.—The Women's Club of Southern Ulster county invites all the women of West Park, Esopus and surrounding communities to join their club.

The club will be most interesting to mothers of school children who haven't time to become acquainted with the everyday current events.

The club will try to bring to its members at each meeting a speaker of the community or nearby towns and cities who will tell them something about the problems of today that everyone must face, such as: education, crime prevention, better movies, etc.

Entertainment will be given by the club and each member will participate.

Refreshments will be served at the close of each meeting.

Mrs. A. Lorrie LaFever of West Esopus is the president of the club. She was a very active member of the Long Island Federation of Women's Clubs.

The next meeting of the Women's Club will be held on Tuesday, February 12, at 8 p. m. in the club room of the Ascension Church Parish House at West Park. There will be a discussion of current events. The speaker will be the Rev. Walter K. Morley Jr., Chaplain at Wallkill and Willbury, who will talk about "The Importance of Prison Work."

Every woman and young girl over 16 years of age is cordially invited to attend.

Special Session Call Resolved

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 7 (AP).—The call for a special session of the general assembly to run a compulsory primary law was revoked today by Governor Ruby Laffoon. In the absence of the governor yesterday, Lt. Gov. A. R. (Chappie) Chandler, an acting chief executive, called the special session to carry on the fight of the anti-administration Democrats to force a primary as requested by President Roosevelt. The governor got back from Washington today and immediately revoked the proclamation. Legal opinion in the capital was divided as to whether under Kentucky law such a proclamation could be revoked.

Reilly Not Worried
By Lapse of Memory

Flemington, N. J., Feb. 7 (AP).—Edward J. Reilly, chief defense counsel for Bruno Richard Hauptmann "forgot" about a bit of evidence, a "lapse" in memory which apparently bothered him not at all.

The evidence was a plaster cast of a footprint, made in St. Raymond's cemetery, the Bronx, several days after Dr. John F. Condon, the ransom intermediary, handed $50,000 to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's money over the wall to a kidnapper.

The prosecution in the Lindbergh kidnapping murder trial never pursued the clue, discovered by Dr. Condon and his son-in-law, Ralph Hacker, because of the delay of several days before the print was found and cast.

State counsel disclosed, however, that the foot size was approximately number nine, the same as that of Hauptmann.

Reilly made a point in quizzing federal investigators, of the fact the discovery was never followed up. He requested production of their reports, which will be private. Military ritual will be tendered by representatives of Kingston Post, No. 150, American Legion, a firing squad and bugler. Interment will be in Port Ewen cemetery.

Mr. Perrine had resided in Port Ewen for 58 years, prior to which he had lived in Rifton, where he was on February 18, 1848. He was employed for many years as a stationary engineer in several brickyards in this vicinity.

His club affiliations included membership in Pratt Post, G. A. R., Hope Lodge, 55, Knights of Pythias, and Port Ewen Fire Department.

Surviving are his wife, who was Mrs. Emma Munson prior to her marriage to the deceased; two daughters, Mrs. Jennie DeWitt of Florida, and Mrs. Emma Van Wagoner of New York city and one son, Joel H. Perrine, of Kingston.

Phonograph Records In Webb-Vallee Trial

New York, Feb. 7 (AP).—The opposing sides in the Fay Webb-Vallee battle came into supreme court today armed with sharply contrasting types of ammunition.

While Fay's counsel were abounding in accountants who have spent two days going over Rudy's finances to find out just how much money he makes—with an eye to showing that the $100 a week the singer pays his estranged wife is not nearly enough—Rudy's legal staff was busy setting up on the counsel table a phonograph complete with electric cord and records—records allegedly of tender telephonic passages between Fay and the agile adagio dancer Garry Leon.

By playing the records for Supreme Court Justice Salvatore A. Cottolino, Rudy's lawyers hope to show that Fay doesn't deserve any alimony at all.

The young lady herself arrived in court early, looking modish and unperturbed. Now and again she stole curious glances at her husband, who studiously avoided returning them.

Activities Planned For Temple Emanuel

Services will be held at Temple Emanuel Friday evening, February 8. Rabbi Bloom will preach on the theme, "The Prayer Book as Literature."

This evening at 8 o'clock the Men's Club of the Temple will meet at the social hall. They will be addressed by the Rev. Howard McGrath. All members of the club and their friends are urged to attend.

Saturday morning at 10:15 the Bible class and at 11:15 the confirmation class will meet at the rabbi's residence.

Sunday evening at 8 o'clock the Young Folks' Group will hold a meeting in the social hall of the Temple.

Wednesday afternoon, February 13, the Sisterhood will meet in the social hall of the Temple at 2 o'clock. The meeting will specially honor those members who have been active in the organization for 20 years or more.

MAX FLEISCHMANN FACES
$100,000 SLANDER SUIT

New York, Feb. 7 (AP).—Damaged of $100,000 are sought from Max C. Fleischmann by Mrs. Rhoda Tanner Doubleday, who charges that the millionaire soap manufacturer and big game hunter slandered her.

Mrs. Doubleday, the former wife of Felix Doubleday, son of the publisher, filed suit in the state supreme court yesterday, giving New York as her home. Fleischmann, an official of Standard Brands, Inc., is a resident of Santa Barbara, Calif.

In her suit Mrs. Doubleday charges that Fleischmann "wickedly, recklessly and maliciously" made others believe that she was unchaste and had been guilty of the crime of blackmail.

The incident is said to have taken place on a golf course at Santa Barbara January 2, 1933, shortly after Mrs. Doubleday had begun suit for $1,500,000 in Chicago against Harold F. McCormick, charging breach of promise. This suit was settled last May.

"No lady ever brings a suit for breach of promise," Mrs. Doubleday quotes Fleischmann as saying.

Woodstock Artists
Busy Planning Work
For TERA Art Project

Woodstock Committee of Artists Submits List of 20 Who Are Eligible to Take Part in Project Plan to Use All of 20, but Only 20 May Work at Any One Time—Work on Preliminary Sketches Started.

The committee of five Woodstock artists named to select the artists who will have a part in the proposed art project for Kingston has submitted a list of 29 names of artists eligible to take part in the project to the local emergency relief bureau. It is planned to use all of the 29 artists, although only 24 artists may work at any one time.

The artists selected on Saturday commended the work of preparing art sketches which are to be submitted to this artists' committee of five. This committee will select the work they deem most appropriate and will submit it to the local committee composed of Mayor C. J. Helselman, Anton Otto Fischer, Judge G. D. B. Hashbrook and Edward Cokendall who will make the final selection and designate the city buildings in which the art objects are to be placed.

The Woodstock committee of artists is composed of Carl Eric Linden, Konrad Cramer, Russell Lee, John Klingsbury and Judson Smith. Mr. Smith will have supervision of the work.

The 29 artists whose names have been filed with the local ERB as eligible to take part in this art project are: John Banks, Clarence Bolton, Emmet Edwards, Eugene Ludina, Ellen Ozanne, Henry Mattison, Charles Rosen, Paul Flene, Cecil Chichester, Austin Macklem, Arnold Blanch, Harry Gottlieb, Grant Arnold, John Bentley, Tode Bower, Lila Copeland, Edward Dreis, George Franklin, Wendell Jones, Georgia Kiltgaard, Peter Mearns, John Nichols, Takashi Ohta, Paul Rohland, Ivan Summers, Carl Waiter, Dorothy Wilson, Bruno Woceski and Edward Thatcher.

Question: How Far Will a Dollar Stretch?

Answer: Just as Far as You Want It To!

THIS picture was made with the aid of one of those phoney rubber dollars you may have seen in the novelty stores. But REAL dollars—honest-to-John shopping dollars—will stretch, too! You can make them cover more purchases than you ever thought possible if you know how and where to spend them most economically!

Making a dollar go farther is just another name for thrift, and thrifty shoppers are usually ad-shoppers. They know what they're going to buy—where to buy it—how much to pay —before they leave their front doors. They plan their shopping tours with the help of The Daily Freeman.

Get the ad-shopping habit. It is the royal road to wise buying.

HIGHLAND

Highland, Feb. 7—Vineyard Rebekah Lodge is arranging to hold a card party on the evening of March 11.

Mrs. Ralph Bragg and Mrs. Richard Dowd were the honor winners at Court Nican card party last week at the home of Mrs. Vincent Gaffney.

The hose company held its regular meeting Tuesday evening when members made further plans for the card party to be held in their rooms on February 22 for the benefit of the milk fund.

Elton Tompkins is the chairman and the tickets will be sold by the firemen. The price of the ticket includes refreshments. Mr. Tompkins is also chairman for the annual banquet to be held at the firehouse on February 26. The president, Richard Burton, will arrange for the speakers. Two new members are admitted, Kenneth Craig and Clyde Matthews.

Vineyard Rebekah Lodge holds a Valentine party at their next meeting, February 14, to which each member is asked to bring a Valentine. The committee, known as Mystery No. 14, has charge of the entertainment. The refreshment committee is Mr. and Mrs. Gideon Tompkins, Mr. and Mrs. Elton Tompkins, Harvey Tompkins, Mrs. Cora Thompson, Miss Helen Thompson, Mrs. Verna Thorpe.

G. Hallock Mackey, having been appointed substitute librarian for the Highland Free Library by the board of trustees began his duties on Monday, and will continue until the librarian, Mrs. Florence White Palen, is able to return. As soon as Miss Mosher of the state department can come Mr. Mackey will take training to become a qualified librarian.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Pratt and Miss Josephine Pratt have returned from a week spent at Lake Placid where the winter sports are featured.

The Tuesday bridge club was entertained this week by Mrs. C. B. Carpenter.

Mrs. Mabel Hasbrouck, Miss Laura Harcourt and Miss Beatrice Hasbrouck were dinner guests Tuesday evening of Mrs. Rose Seaman.

Court Nican, C. D. of A., will hold a regular meeting next Wednesday evening in St. Augustine's Club room.

Noted Artist Dies.

Fryeburg, Me., Feb. 7 (AP)—Stephen A. Douglas Volk, 79, noted American portrait painter, died at his home here today. Famed for three portraits of Abraham Lincoln, Volk was working on a fourth until his health grew feeble recently. The unfinished portrait would have portrayed an early scene in Volk's life, when his father, Leonard Volk, made a bust of the great emancipator. Lincoln posed with Douglas, then four years old, sitting on his lap. Volk also was famed for portraits of King Albert of Belgium, David Lloyd George, wartime premier of Great Britain, and General John J. Pershing.

For many years, "Ma" Barker (right) fought verbal battles with the police in an effort to save her four sons from punishment. Finally, she took up the machine gun trail with the boys and became "Babes" of the gang. Two of the sons and "Ma" are dead, another is in prison, and Arthur "Doc" Barker (left) is awaiting trial in the Bremer kidnapping case in St. Paul, Minn.

American Steel Industry Pays Wage Rate
120 to 650% Above Foreign Average

STEEL mill employees in the United States earn an average of 120 to 650 per cent more per hour than workers in foreign mills according to a calculation made recently by the American Iron and Steel Institute based on records of the U. S. Department of Labor and the League of Nations.

American workers who are paid on an hourly, piece-work or timebasis earned an average of 64.7 cents per hour in November, 1934, the latest month for which such information is available.

This average hourly rate compares with the unweighted average of 20.6 cents per hour paid to steel workers in Germany in 1934, the average hourly rate in November, 1934, the latest month for which such information is available.

In Czechoslovakia, France, Germany, Great Britain, India, Italy, Japan and Sweden, according to latest available figures,

Parent-Teacher Associations

Founder's Day Celebrated

The 38th birthday of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers was celebrated by the Kingston Federation Council of Parent-Teacher Associations at their meeting Wednesday afternoon at the high school.

The celebration was in charge of Mrs. W. J. Anderson and consisted of 20 questions and answers about facts important for every P.T.A. member to know concerning the history and ideals of the organization. This questionnaire was prepared by Mrs. Anderson as was also the candle-lighting ceremony in which 11 members were grouped about a large beautifully decorated birthday cake each reciting a verse as she lit a candle, after which Mrs. Anderson recited the poem, "Hold High the Torch," by Nellie B. Bradley. Ice cream and generous slices of the birthday cake were served to all. A $5 offering was made to state and national extension work.

The council president, Mrs. Arthur H. Russell, reminded the local presidents that state and national dues should be paid by February 1.

Mrs. Anderson, as district public-relations chairman, made the following announcements: The subject "What About Marks and Promotions" will be discussed at a sectional meeting of the National Congress and Department of Superintendence at Hotel Ambassador, Atlantic City, February 25 to 28. On Tuesdays, during February, 4:30 to 4:45 p.m., over WHAM, the New York State Congregational broadcasts. The topic, February 12, will be "Education for Peace," the speaker Dr. Raymond M. Kistler, president of Rochester and Monroe County Federation of Churches. There will be music by a colored quartet from Madison High School. Wednesdays, over WBEU, 1:45 to 2 p.m., the Buffalo P.T.A. Council Broadcasts. Thursdays, 5 to 5:30 p.m., over Red Network, NBC, the National Congress broadcasts. February 14, John E. Anderson, Department of Psychology, University of Minnesota, will speak on "Habits: Their Importance, How Formed and Broken."

Mrs. J. Campbell reported 17 tables and net proceeds of $22.25 at the card party held on Tuesday evening at the Randall store. She thanked the local presidents who had cooperated and the council president, Mrs. Russell, thanked all who had helped to make the party a success. The secretary was requested to thank the Randall Company for their generous hospitality.

Two performances of "The Wizard of Oz," which the Junior League and P.T.A.'s are producing on Saturday, were announced at 1:30 and 2:30 p.m. Mrs. Joseph Craig announced the next meeting of Miss Peabody's Lay Leader Class at Friday, February 15.

Miss Cordes invited all to attend the High School P.T.A. meeting next Wednesday and hear Dr. Skinner of the State Board of Regents talk on "Regents' Examinations."

WOODSTOCK.

Woodstock, Feb. 7.—Mary Adeline Summers was ill on Wednesday with German measles.

Mrs. Isobel Doughty returned on Wednesday from a visit to New York.

The large fire truck was called out at about 10 a.m. Wednesday for a slight fire, so small that the truck was back in the firehouse in 20 minutes. The small fire engine was serviced at Peper's garage the same afternoon.

A large party of friends met at the home of Mrs. Ruth Allen Greenwood and her mother Tuesday night for a dance of centaur bridge. Wally Hatty was an honor winner. The card party given last week by the P.T.A. added $8 to the treasury. Four tables of bridge were played and two of pinochle. At the end of the games a food auction was held.

A letter from George Johnson concerning the author of his dad hat was read over the radio on Wednesday. Edgar Wood, Jr., completing the sidewalk tiling on the windows of Warren and Winona Blatty's Real Estate and Insurance office. He is soliciting the job for John Hunt who is moving up.

The Rev. Harvey L. Todd is putting the finishing touches on a chalice preparing for the ministerial show to be given for the benefit of the Reformed Church on February 12 and 13. The gift will follow the main show.

Albertson Called Woodstock Spur

The western spur on earth is in the Albertson hollow, Giles which, in one moment reacted a velocity of 236 miles an hour, are reported.

Ship Captains Held In Negligence Trial

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—Charging negligence caused the collision between the steamers Lexington and Jane Christensen the night of January 2, in which at least four lives were lost, the steamboat inspection service today ordered the captains of the two ships and the pilot of the Christensen to appear for trial March 21.

The charge against them is negligence in navigation. The board which will try them has power to revoke their licenses.

The three cited are William O. Pendleton, master of the Lexington; John W. Wikman, master of the Jane Christensen, and Walter S. Mitchell, pilot of the Christensen.

The report of inspectors Karl Nielsen and James Smith, who conducted the investigation, asserted signals either were not heard or were misinterpreted.

The collision occurred in the East river, directly under the Brooklyn Bridge. The Lexington sank quickly.

U. S. Farmers to Get $422,230,000 in 1935

Washington, Feb. 7 (AP)—Government economists said today this country's farmers are assured of government checks for $422,230,000 this year. They estimated the sum may pass half a billion dollars.

Under the AAA program which started May 12, 1933, more than 10 million checks for $629,614,037 had been passed out by this largest of the new government alphabetical agencies as this month started.

Cost of the AAA from its inception until the start of this year was $733,983,535. Administrator Chester C. Davis said. But of this amount only $36,184,780 was for administration expenses. The bulk was divided in rental and benefit payments to producers and purchases of surpluses.

Anti-Trust Proceedings

Washington, Feb. 7 (AP)—Two anti-trust proceedings involving 16 Cleveland steel corporations with assets aggregating $1,276,000,000 were brought today by the department of justice in the Ohio city.

French Cooks in a Row

With the Academicians

It is regarded as a healthy sign that in the midst of political disputes France has again found time for a culinary controversy. The latest is about sauces, and has opposed the Federation of Cooks to that august assembly, the French academy. The cooks appear to be getting the best of it.

The academy in a recent session adopted a new definition of the sauce that is known in French gastronomy as remoulade. The sauce, which in every previous edition of the academy dictionary had been described merely as "a kind of sauce picante," has now been defined as "mayonnaise sauce containing mustard."

Great indignation among the cooks! Mayonnaise, indeed! There is nothing about a remoulade even approaching a mayonnaise, they declare. The determining characteristic of mayonnaise, it is pointed out, is that it is based in yolk of egg. Remoulade, according to the best Parisian chef, is a sauce composed of mustard, salt, vinegar, oil and sometimes including parsley, shallots, or finely chopped herbs. No yolk of egg, and therefore no possible chance of confusion with a mayonnaise.

It is even pointed out that the remoulade was defined in the academy dictionary in 1740, thereby antedating the invention of mayonnaise, which occurred in 1736, and its name was a corruption of the name of the town of Port Mahon, which was taken in that year by Cardinal Richelieu, in whose honor the famous salad dressing was named.

The academy on its accounts can furnish only one isolated definition of a special kind of remoulade called remoulade à la Provençale, which Alexander Dumas declared was made of the yolks of two hard-boiled eggs, a little parsley, a little garlic and the yolk of a raw egg. Here is yolk of egg enough, but it is probable that out of respect to the cooks the proofs of the academy dictionary will be corrected.

Thimble-Sized
Young meadow mice are born blind, deaf, toothless and hairless, weighing a fraction of an ounce and small enough to fit into a thimble. They grow rapidly and are weaned in 12 days. In a few weeks those young adults breed, producing a litter after monthly intervals until winter sets in, when they generally cease breeding because of the scarcity of food.

Cosmetics Are Not New

Back in the Second century, men probably complained about women daubing their faces and lips with rouge right in public at the chariot races or gladiator contests, because it has now been established that cosmetic art is not new at all. In a collection of ancient glassware from Syria, Rome, Pompeii, Gaul and Macedonia exhibited at the Field Museum of Natural History are bottles and other vessels designed to hold cosmetics and perfumes.

Transmitting Speech by Wire Was Great Problem

The electric speaking telephone was invented by Alexander Graham Bell in 1877. The principle, as conceived by Bell at that time, was embodied in a pair of crude telephone instruments connected by about 100 feet of wire, by means of which speech sounds were transmitted from one room to another in a building in Boston, hearing being accomplished only with the greatest difficulty.

For many years before Bell's invention, wrote a correspondent in the Indianapolis News, scientists and inventors had been striving to transmit speech electrically. They succeeded in transmitting musical sounds, but because they were dealing with "make-and-break" electrical current, they failed to transmit intelligible speech. The work of a German named Phillip Reis, one of the early experimenters with a "make-and-break" current, was subsequently brought forward in an attack upon the validity of Bell's patent, but the United States Circuit court said:

"A century of Reis would never have produced a speaking telephone by mere improvement in construction. . . . Bell discovered a new art—that of transmitting speech by electricity."

In 1874 Bell and Elisha Gray were striving independently to invent a musical or harmonic telegraph which would enable several telegraph messages to be transmitted simultaneously over a single wire, and it was during the course of this work that Bell made his invention of the telephone.

Rome Erected Aqueduct for Mimic Sea Battles

A special aqueduct had to be built to care for the ancient Romans' mimic sea fights, according to a booklet issued by the Carnegie Institution, says

United Press correspondent.

When the Romans turned from chariot racing and gladiatorial contests to the new novelty of sea battles on enclosed lakes or flooded arenas, the Aqua Alsietina was built to bring enough additional water to float the ships.

Rival fleets were manned by criminals or prisoners of war. Frequently they fought until one side was exterminated amid the cheers of the bloodthirsty spectators.

The Aqua Alsietina was the seventh of the eleven great aqueducts which were built by the Romans during the five centuries that they ruled the ancient world. The first was started 312 years before Christ and the last completed about 230 A. D.

Visitors in Italy drive along the Appian Way for miles just outside Rome and see the ruins of the Aqua Alsietina, first Roman attempt to bring water to their city. It was modeled after underground sewers which had been discovered by the Romans some years earlier.

The "Virgins' Aqueduct" was built in 19 B. C. to bring in needed waters for the expanding public baths which the Romans favored. These baths were much like a combination of present day Y. M. C. A. clubrooms rather than strictly bathing rooms.

The Valley of the Mous

One of the loveliest regions of France is near Mezieres, the capital of the Ardennes, founded in the Ninth century. Beyond the town lies a series of beautiful gorges with the river flowing 200 and 300 meters below the level of the plateau. Every valley, every rocky crag is filled with luxuriant vegetation and the dark red and gray cliffs of several hundred feet often approach too close to each other to allow a footpath on its banks. The district is the legendary home of "The Four Sons of Aymon," heroes of the Middle Ages, who rode one behind the other on the wonderful horse Bayard, gift of the fairy Orlando.

The academy on its accounts can furnish only one isolated definition of a special kind of remoulade called remoulade à la Provençale, which Alexander Dumas declared was made of the yolks of two hard-boiled eggs, a little parsley, a little garlic and the yolk of a raw egg. Here is yolk of egg enough, but it is probable that out of respect to the cooks the proofs of the academy dictionary will be corrected.

Poland's Salt Mine

For more than ten centuries miners toiled in the salt shafts near Cracow, Poland, and being deeply religious, they spent their spare time in carving marvelous figures in salt. A complete cathedral, containing giant chandeliers, beautiful statues of the saints, altars and other Biblical figures and objects, is one example of the workers' skill.

On feast days of modern times, mass is held in the underground cathedral.

Among the statues is that of the Virgin.

In one part of the mine a giant statue and a beautiful hall appear.

monuments to the devotion of the miners.

Sleep Through Winter
In autumn the hedgehog will carry large quantities of dry grass and bracken into his deep underground house, and when the ground is in the grip of frost he is rolled up in his cozy bed. Nothing but warmth will awaken him, and if there is a winter of unbroken frost he will sleep through it all. The little dormouse of the hedgehog hibernates even more deeply, for, no matter what the weather is like outside, his sleep lasts from November to the first warm days of March.—Til-Ella Magazine.

Tobacco Quality

Tobacco quality is related directly to the nitrogen content of the soil in which the "seed" is grown, the United States Bureau of Plant Industry has determined. The soil's nitrogen content must be high for quality cigars and low for quality cigarettes. Maryland tobacco, it was found, is lower in nicotine content than tobacco grown in other states.

"Land of the Big Feet"

When Russell was on his voyage around the world, which ended for him in the Philippines, he shipped to a place in South America where he found large footprints in the sand. For this reason he called the place Patagonia, or the "Land of Big Feet."

WEST SHOKAN

West Shokan, Feb. 7.—The members of the Olive town board, headed by Supervisor Leroy Davis, held a meeting on Friday, February 1, at Olive Bridge. This was a regular meeting and the routine work of auditing the January bills. A new TERA project came to the board's attention. This is road improvement program, being a section of the old turnpike which is now the Mountain road, running approximately parallel with the upper Shokan north boulevard. The road intersects the boulevard southerly, near the Braithwaite nursery, and northerly it emerges at the filling station of Grant DeSilva at Boliceville. A continuation of the road which is not covered in the repair project routes northerly past the farm residence of Larry Bishop and thence turning down the hill meets the main highway by the McElvey Brothers farm, nearly opposite the C. C. camp. The board during its deliberations also passed unanimously a resolution that the supervisor, with council if necessary, attend the public hearing held Tuesday in Albany on the Hayes bill which would exempt all city aqueducts from taxation. While not mentioning the Ashokan reservoir property is assumed to be an opening wedge at least, and the board desired to go on record as opposing the exemption of such property. It is suggested that interested taxpayers write their senators and assemblymen.

Joseph Bruno Given 6 to 12 Years in Prison For Election Killing

Potsville, Pa., Feb. 7 (AP).—A jury that deliberated for 65 hours returned a verdict of voluntary manslaughter today against Joseph J. Bruno, former county detective charged with murder in the Malavera election eve shooting outbreak in which five were slain. The verdict provides for six to twelve years imprisonment.

Bruno occupied a seat inside the court room railing and did not rise as the verdict was announced by John Planekan, 71-year-old foreman of the jury. Bruno displayed no emotion. The jury fled at 11:57 and the verdict was announced a minute later. Judge C. M. Palmer discharged the ten men and two women immediately.

The verdict was returned at a time when the illness of Juror No. 2, Mrs. John Connors, threatened a mistrial. Bailiffs announced at 11:15 that a verdict had been reached. A half hour earlier Dr. James B. Heller said he examined Mrs. Connors and would recommend an operation for appendicitis if she did not show improvement soon.

Bruno was convicted specifically for the slaying of Frank Fiorella. He can be tried four more times for his life, once on each of the remaining indictments. Five indictments also were found against each of six kinsmen, including two sons, James and Alfred Bruno, and a brother, Philip Bruno. The others are Paul and Arthur Bruno, Philip's sons, and Anthony Orlando, a relative by marriage.

The Commonwealth charged that the outbreak was a result of Bruno's waning political power. Bruno was enraged, Prosecutor Albert L. Thomas told the jury, on the night before the November election when two meetings were held in Relyea and the Democratic gathering outnumbered Bruno's followers.

The Democrats marched from their meeting place to the street corner on which the Bruno house is located and there were dispersed by gunfire. Hospital records accounted for five dead and 15 injured. Trial testimony developed that many others were treated privately by physicians for minor gunshot wounds.

Agents Seize Alcohol Still on Glasco Road, Six Men Are Arrested

A thousand gallon alcohol still, with equipment, also about 20,000 gallons of sugar mash and a quantity of alcohol were seized about 12:30 this morning by investigators from the New York office of the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

Six men were arrested and brought to the Ulster county jail where they were held to await arraignment today before U. S. Commissioner A. C. Connelly.

The still was located in a barn on the Martello farm, eight miles from Kingston on the Glasco road.

According to the officers two of the men arrested were in charge of the still at the time, three others were about the place and the sixth drove up with a seven-passenger Packard sedan while the officers were present. The sedan was seized.

The defendants, who were to be arraigned before Commissioner Connelly this afternoon, were booked as: John Pizimenti, 35, 200 East 16th street, New York city; Frank Lapreste, 37, same address; Onorato Penedoro, 43, 87 Grand street, Port Chester, N. Y.; Joseph Birrano, 24, 198 13th street, Brooklyn; Stanley Sabatino, 34, and Joseph Martello, 48, both of Saugerties.

Sea Scout Troop to Give Minstrel Show

The Sea Scout Patrol will give a big minstrel show at Holy Cross Hall, February 14, for the benefit of the troop which is trying to raise some money for their Sea Scout uniforms. The United States Navy Department has offered the Patrol a cutter which they will use on the Hudson river when warmer weather sets in.

The troop already received gifts for the boat such as life belts, dingsies and a sea compass. The minstrel show, they hope, will provide enough money to pay for their new sea going uniforms.

The show under the direction of Dick Obensas, will be studded with star entertainers who will be introduced by Conrad Kantsler, master of ceremonies. Endmen will include Fred Spalt, John J. Flaherty, Ed Freez, Philip Stasi, Wes Hyatt and John Murphy.

In conjunction with the minstrel there will be seven distinct acts featuring Helen Cashin's dancing pupils, Sam Scudder on the accordion, Van Deuseen the Great Magician and many others.

Following is the program to be presented:

Tuba, Great Bass Horn, Harsh, Very Effective

The modern tuba exists in many sizes. There are six of these—an octave, alto, tenor, baritone, bass and contrabass. The smaller members of this family are not found in the orchestra, but take part in military bands, especially in France, under the name of tuborns, notes a writer in the Washington Post.

The bass tuba, or bombardon, is employed in the symphony orchestra. It consists of a rather wide tapering brass tube, curved in a fairly short and rounded oblong and provided with a deep-cupped mouthpiece. It has the usual pistons, or valves, but is provided with an extra one that lowers the pitch. The four platos thus enable the player to produce a scale of an octave below any given tone on the instrument.

The bass tuba can give the lowest E flat on the piano. Its deeper tones are full, and somewhat forcible, almost brutal, in quality. Its compass extends upward about two and a half octaves. Wagner gave an impetus to the use of tubas, calling for five in his "Nibelung Ring."

The tuba has not the smooth quality of the trombone, but its gruff harshness can be made very effective.

Astigmatism

The eye condition known as astigmatism of "distorted focus" was not known until 1801.

ERB Receives 3,000 Pounds of Veal for Relief Families Here

Three thousand pounds of veal, part of the federal surplus food commodities, were received by the local emergency relief bureau today from Albany. The veal arrived by truck, and as soon as it was received butchers were placed at work cutting it up into various sized chunks for distribution to relief families in the city.

The veal will be ready for distribution to all relief families on Friday and Saturday at the food commissary in the water board barn, adjoining the city hall.

This is the first veal from the federal reserve to be received by the local emergency relief Bureau.

Visitor Fined $5

Laurence Henroy, a visitor from Staten Island, was arrested by Patrolman James P. Martin for public intoxication on Railroad avenue this morning. He was fined $5 by City Judge Bernard A. Culleton in police court this morning.

Parthians, Famous Fighters

Parthians, a people akin to the Persians, were famed in the ancient world for skill at fighting with bows and arrows on horseback. They controlled merchant caravan roads between East and West for several centuries before Christ and their capital was called by the Greeks the "Bundled-Gated," because so many roads met there.

Sherman Injured When Hit by Auto

Albert Sherman of Stone Ridge was reported as resting comfortably today at the Benedictine Hospital where he is being treated for injuries suffered last Tuesday evening in an automobile accident.

Sherman's face and head were severely lacerated, and several small bones in one foot broken, and his back painfully injured, according to reports. Dr. Galvin of Rosendale attended him, following the accident and ordered him removed to the hospital.

A report of the accident, made to the Kingston Police Department by Benjamin Levy of the Servicenter, a local filling station, states that his car struck Sherman near the garage of Edward Bush on the Stone Ridge road. Sherman, the report says, was walking with traffic. Levy said he struck the man when he was forced to the extreme right of the road by glaring headlights on an approaching car.

Cafeteria Supper.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Fair Street Reformed Church will hold a cafeteria supper Tuesday evening, February 19. An appetizing menu will be served.

Frankie Emerson Wins.

Frankie Emerson, brother of Bud Emerson of St. Helens, scored a knockout victory in the Golden Gloves Tourney at New York last night when he finished Mike Occhio in one minute and 40 seconds of the first round.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

CLAUDE E. JAGGER

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—Financial market signs brightened a bit today although bullish enthusiasm was noticeably restrained in all departments.

Trading in stocks was somewhat more active and speculative forces were encouraged by a fair rally in the rails. Many observers have held the belief that equities will have to obtain the support of the carriers if they ever are to get started on an upward climb.

Commodities were rather firm, with grains exhibiting the best tendencies. Highest grade corporation bonds were around their closing levels of the previous session. Foreign exchanges again pointed higher in terms of the dollar.

Shares up fractionally to around a point included Santa Fe, Union Pacific, N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Celanese, Industrial Rayon, Inland Steel, U. S. Steel Preferred, American Smelting, John Manville, American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, General Motors, Chrysler, Columbia Carbon, Case and Caterpillar Tractor.

Republic Steel Preferred dropped nearly 4 points and Commercial Credit "A" was off a point. Such issues as Public Service of New Jersey, Western Union, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Deere, U. S. Smelting, U. S. Steel Common, and Bethlehem Steel were about unchanged.

CRIME FIGHT TO GO ON, SAYS CUMMINGS

Attorney General Finds Public Demands Action.

Washington.—Declaring the government's war on crime "must go on and must succeed," Attorney General Homer S. Cummings appealed to the American people for continued support. Mr. Cummings said:

"There is no doubt that crime, in its modern phases in the United States, presents a most sweeping challenge to our national pride, a challenge to the prestige of government itself."

"Moreover, it is a challenge that cannot be met unless our people are determined that it shall be met."

Demand for Action.

Continuing, the attorney general asserted:

"Public opinion has at last begun to express itself in the field of crime. It is not an opinion that impinges upon the federal government. It is beginning to affect all governmental authorities throughout the nation, whether their jurisdiction be great or small."

Urge Co-operation.

Urging states to establish their own departments of justice, bringing all enforcement agencies of each state into a well-regulated machine, he declared one of the major problems on which he is engaged concerns co-operation of federal and state agencies.

He is also heir to the title conferred during the Indian mutiny—"The Faithful Ally of the British Government."

Already the baby is dressed in heavily bejeweled cloth of gold. During the summer heat the infant chafed, but only when doctors ordered it was he put into more comfortable clothes.

First Streamlined Train Patented 69 Years Ago

Boston.—That newest development of this speed-and-era, the streamlined train, seemed new, but now it appears that it was all worked out in 1865 by a Roxbury clergyman, Rev. Samuel R. Calthrop.

The train had the appearance of one half, the cars being joined by flexible vestibules. The locomotive had a show-like snout and was completely sheathed, except for the stack—for this, of course, was to be a steam train. Windings and doors were built flush with the sheathing, which extended all the way around the cars, the wheels running in slots, the rear of the last car tapering to a point in the latest approved manner. Another modern feature was a system of forced ventilation with which Doctor Calthrop anticipated air conditioning.

Suit Over Short Weight Ended in a Stalemate

Budapest.—A baker sued a dairyman for fraud. "This dairyman," he told the court, "was supposed to supply ten pounds every day, but he delivered only nine. I can name as many witnesses as you may find necessary."

The dairyman pleaded not guilty. "Have you no scales to weigh the butter?" asked the judge. "Of course I have, but I have no weight, and as a poor man I cannot afford to buy any." "How did you know, then, that you were delivering exactly ten pounds of butter?" the judge inquired.

"The end is," replied the dairyman. "Then the baker would say ten pounds of bread to my store every day. When I got it on the scales and balanced it with the same quantity of butter, it was really not my fault that there was always a pound of the bread missing."

Both parties called in the learned questioning and Wilentz began to test the physician's knowledge on other features of the ladder.

"Q. You found saw cuts in addition to those necessary to build the ladder?

"A. I saw what I thought were saw cuts.

Wilentz took Dr. Hudson's charts, to look, apparently without success,

for any designation of saw cuts.

Wilentz, exhibiting another ladder picture, asked if Dr. Hudson could note any discoloration.

The witness said he couldn't tell from the photograph.

Turns Back To Saw Cuts.

The interrogator turned back to possible notations of saw cuts in Dr. Hudson's data. He indicated the words "saw cut seven-eighths of an inch."

The witness, after urging by Justice Trenchard, agreed that the note was his.

The attorney general and the witness frequently glared at each other and the doctor's attitude seemed to be one of restrained impatience at the rigorous questioning.

Wilentz recited conditions existing at the Lindbergh estate on the Sourland Mountain on the kidnap ladder.

Wilentz asked if the ladder was made of wood by the chemical.

$500,000 Fire Today
Drives 60 to Street

Hudson, Mass., Feb. 7 (AP).—Sixty persons were driven into the bitter cold today as fire destroyed the Chase block and damaged two adjoining buildings.

Crumbling walls seriously injured one fireman, several persons were carried out over ladders and the 20-odd guests at the Mansion House, hotel adjoining the Chase block, were roused and ordered to the street.

The temperature stood at 10 degrees below zero as firemen from Marlboro, Maynard and Berlin helped fight the blaze, which insurance officials estimated caused $500,000 damage. The cause was unknown.

The fire started in the Chase block, situated in the center of the community. Thirteen families, housed in apartments on the third floor, were carried down over ladders or led through the smoke and flame-filled halls. The town hall was thrown open to them.

The street at the front of the building was cleared as shot gun shells, a part of the stock of a first-floor hardware store, exploded, spraying pellets over a wide area.

J. G. Johnson, Manhattan, Kas., restaurant proprietor, offered free soup on Christmas day to anyone who asked, but nobody asked.

POLITICS at Random

THE senate's world court flip-flop has provided an economic-minded national capital with an interlude of many strange aspects.

Why did Mr. Roosevelt, at a moment when popular discussion of the court was at a low ebb and many domestic issues were pressing, suggest that ratification be put at the head of the calendar of the new congress?

What was the real significance of the many mysterious comings and goings among senators and other high officials while the debate was in progress?

What was it, basically, that turned what appeared a certain court victory into a stunning defeat?

Now that the protocol is ratified, what happens?

These are a few of the questions which even members of the senate are asking one another. The whole proceeding was as regular with surprises that all Washington is wondering and whispering.

logical reactions, took the risk of bringing into the picture such a dynamite-laden issue as the world court right at the opening of the session.

Not All-important?

Now that the court has been defeated, what of the future? It would deny the lessons of history to suppose the issue will not come up again, after a reasonable lapse. Court advocates already are preparing to renew the battle.

Meanwhile, the significance of the defeat easily could be exaggerated. After so many years of wrangling over courts and leagues and conference agreements, there are those who think it may not be so all-important, after all, what treaties are signed and what are not.

The United States had no treaty obligating it to settle the Russo-Japanese war, or enter the world war. Yet it did both. The whole world signed the Kellogg anti-war treaty. Put to the test, it collapsed; as has many another writing on paper.

There are signs that American statesmanship during the next few years may be directed toward cultivating a national will to international friendship, rather than signing protocols and treaties.

New Paltz Normal School Activities

Miss Helen Olds' oral expression classes displayed their reading and expressive talents during the chapel hour in the auditorium on Tuesday.

The program was as follows: "Fifth Avenue and Grand Street" by Carolyn Davies, read by Cornelia Schoonmaker. "My Rival" by Rudyard Kipling. Doris Tucker. "The Shell" by James Stevens, Elsie Johns. Reading from "Death Take a Holiday" by W. Ferrell. Marjory Morris. "Prisoner" by Margaret Widdimer. Edith Byrnes. "The Interviewer" by Mark Twain. Milton Cohen. "The Song of the Camp" by Bayard Taylor. Stelle Sadowski. "Coyote" by Albert Haas. "Work by Angels" Morgan. Evelyn Roosa. "A Modest Wit" by Zelieach Osborne. Xenia Colver.

The following new books have been added to the library and will be stamped and made ready for circulation very soon: "Private Lives," Noel Coward; "Paul Bunyan and His Great Blue Ox," Wallace Wade; "Trivia," Logan Pearsall Smith; "The Second Jungle Book," Kipling; "Cavalcade," Noel Coward; "The Winged Horse Anthology," Auslander and Hill; "Ten Plays from O. ### Fireman Noble Will Return Home Today

Was the More Seriously Injured of the Three Firemen Hurt While Fighting Fire at Ashdown Residence When Chimney Collapsed.

Fireman Edward Noble, of the Central Fire Station, who was the more seriously injured of the three firemen hurt when a chimney collapsed Wednesday at the residence of William Ashdown on Albany avenue extension, was expected to return to his home today from the Kingston Hospital. Fireman Noble was injured about the head. The other two firemen injured were John Heppner and Richard Smith.

Fireman Heppner resumed his duties today, but Fireman Smith was still confined to his home.

The three firemen were in the lower entrance hall of the Ashdown house fighting the fire that had broken out, when the chimney, which rose in the center of the house, suddenly collapsed and the three firemen were caught under a shower of brick from the falling chimney.

All three firemen were cut and bruised by the falling brick. Firemen Heppner and Smith were discharged from the hospital after their wounds were dressed, while Fireman Noble remained at the hospital until today. They were injured shortly before noon on Wednesday.

The house was badly damaged by the fire, which broke out in the roof.

Legion Drive In Final Period Defeats Schenectady By 29-18

Before a capacity crowd Wednesday evening at the Municipal Auditorium, the Kingston Legionnaires turned the tables on their upstairs rivals from Schenectady, who defeated the locals last Saturday, and trounced them in a final period drive by the count of 29-18. Schenectady was unable to score in the final frame while Kingston's slashing attack, led by "Hawk" Kuriyka, netted the locals 10 points for a safe margin of victory.

For the first two periods it was a nip and tuck affair. The lead changed hands several times and at the finish of the opening stanza the score stood 12-12 in favor of the visitors. Kingston garnered 12 points in the second to eke out a slim lead of one point when the whistle blew. The count was 18-18. The Legionnaires forged ahead in the final period with a vicious assault that kept the upstairs on the defense most of the time.

First Period

Shimok opened the scoring soon after the first tap with a long field from the center of the floor. Carlile Huston quickly followed this up with a foul shot. Schenectady got possession of the ball and scored three fields in quick succession. Stanton, the star guard, dropped in the first, Cicolella the second and DeNubilo the third. Shimok then counted with another long field and Huston another foul. Hamilton and Sykes each made good a double foul and Schenectady ran out the last few minutes with two fields and a foul. They had clearly outplayed Kingston and were leading 12-7.

Second Period

The Legionnaires started with a rush and reversed the show. It was their turn to chalk up 12 points. Huston and Koehler started by scoring fouls. Kuriyka dropped in a field and Koehler scored again, this time from the floor. Sloman and DeNubilo counted fouls for the visitors and Cicolella tossed in a pretty field shot. Shimok and the "Hawk" scored again for four more points as Sloman quickly followed them up with a dence. Captain Huston scored for Kingston as the whistle blew. Up to this point it was anybody's ball game. The count was 18-18 in favor of the locals.

Final Period

Kingston outplayed their rivals in the third stanza with an offense that had the upstairs on their heels. Schenectady failed to score a single point as Koehler and Shimok started in by sinking fouls. Kuriyka and Koehler counted from the floor. The "Hawk" sank another foul and "Shimie" followed him from the chalk line. A couple of minutes before the final bell Kuriyka dropped in another field to end the scoring.

Pete Sinnott, popular American League referee, officiated and called 17 fouls on Schenectady and 14 on Kingston.

Charles Bock Third In DUSO Scoring

When the DUSO scoring list for this week was recently announced it showed Charles Bock of Kingston High basketball team was the third highest scorer in the league for the first half of the 1935 schedule. Charles Bock and his brother, Ed, who ranks number nine, are the only Kingston players who have scored more than ten points so far in the DUSO campaign.

Vuelo tops the list as he did last year until the last two weeks of the campaign when he was edged out by Johnny Zeek and Cowboy Evertz, both of Kingston. George Pepper of Port Jervis is second. The scoring feats of both these seasoned veterans however are dimmed by the feat of Charles Bock, black-haired Sophomore, in ranking as the third highest scorer when playing in his first full year under the Kingston banner. With two and a half seasons besides the present one yet to play he should develop into one of Kingston's best forwards.

The individual scoring is as follows:

Player and Team	Goals	Assists	Points
Pepper, P. J. ....	14	10	32
Bock, C. ....	12	11	27
Evertz, E. ....	11	8	24
Keller, J. ....	11	4	24
Hunter, N. ....	10	3	23
Goldberg, M. ....	9	2	22
Lettman, N. ....	9	2	22

French Breathe Easier After Potential Riot

Paris, Feb. 7 (P).—Safely past the anniversary of "bloody Tuesday" with a potential riot averted through the arrest of 1,200 communists, Paris breathed a sigh of relief today.

Citizens who were burying their dead or bandaging their own wounds this time last year prepared to forget the sad day for another 12 months.

A check of the day's casualties revealed that one civilian and five policemen were nursing slight injuries, compared with the 19 killed and more than 800 wounded in last year's street battles.

Material damage was limited to splatters of red paint on statues and lamp posts in the Place De La Concorde which had been reduced to a shambles a year ago.

KINGSTON RESIDENTS ARE PRAISED BY CAMP 2, CCC

Members of Company 215, Camp 2, CCC, Boiceville, N. Y., publicly express gratitude to Managers Bert Gildersleeve and Bob Hall, of the Broadway Theatre, for their cooperation in providing entertainment in the line of first run pictures, to the boys of this company. Up to date the boys have been the guests of the management during the presentation of the pictures: "College Humor," "The President Vanishes," and "Kentucky Kernel," all big hits, and now we are again their guests for that smash hit of hits, "The Country Gentleman," featuring Will Rogers, America's foremost humorist.

On February 6, the caravan of trucks bearing 150 conservation workers was escorted through the streets of Kingston by the police department, to the Broadway Theatre, where they witnessed "The Country Gentleman". Needless to say they enjoyed it immensely.

The managers of the Broadway Theatre are truly showing splendid public spirit. In cooperating with the Educational Department of the CCC, The Civilian Conservation Corps is badly in need of public cooperation, but the people of Kingston have eliminated that most necessary want. Newspapers, business firms, civilians, and others are all cooperating to provide the boys of the CCC with a happier life, thus making them better men and consequently better citizens.

To you, Mr. Gildersleeve, and Mr. Hall, to this paper, and to all other good citizens we express our appreciation.

AUNT AGATHA'S ROMANCE

AUNT AGATHA SPENCER AT fifty-five was still romantic.

There is a story that Aunt Agatha was once the village queen, and that her romance with brilliant Paul Shelley was slipped to the bud when Paul eloped with the widow Dawson and never came back to Dexter.

Most folks give some credence to this tale.

Aunt Agatha's features still reflect the glory of a once alluring beauty. She has retained many of her early ideas about love and is always eager to counsel youth in regard to it.

Some folks call the old lady flighty. Romance had never again come to Aunt Agatha after her affair with Paul Shelley.

That is, it never came until one day last June. On that day Aunt Agatha had a caller.

Unfortunately she was away at the time and Emma Lougren, the housekeeper, answered the door.

Emma's face wore a look of deep concern when Aunt Agatha got home.

"Who," she asked, "do you suppose called this afternoon?"

"Paul Shelley," said Aunt Agatha quickly.

And for just an instant a sort of wistful look came to dwell in her eyes.

You could tell that she'd never forgotten Paul.

"Don't be silly," said Emma. "It was Roy Huckleworth."

"Roy Huckleworth! Whatever did he want?"

"Goodness knows. He asked for you and when I told him you were out he looked at me kind of queerly and walked away."

* * *

Aunt Agatha was puzzled. Then suddenly she smiled. "We'll soon solve that mystery," she said, and picked up the telephone.

But Emma was quick to interfere. "No you don't, Aggie. You're not calling up any men like Roy Huckleworth. Goodness knows, folks ain't got over your affair with Paul Shelley yet."

A hurt look came into Aunt Agatha's eyes.

Emma saw the look and regretted her words. "Now don't take it that way, Aggie. I didn't mean to hurt you none, but Roy Huckleworth ain't no man for you to be calling up. Every one knows he ain't right in his head. Chances are he's got some crazy notion and—wants to take you rid-in' or somethin'."

Aunt Agatha's eyes sparkled.

"How exciting, Emma! How very exciting! I always did think Roy was handsome."

Emma was aghast.

Personally she was afraid of Roy Huckleworth. He always had that wild look in his eyes that you see in the expressions of people who aren't just right mentally.

The mystery, for a time, went unsolved. Then Roy called again at the Spencer home. And again it was Emma who greeted him at the door.

But this time Aunt Agatha was in the sitting room and heard the conversation. She came to the door, just as Emma was slamming it in Mr. Huckleworth's face.

"He looked desperate, Aggie," Emma said a little shakily.

"He said he had to see you personally, Aggie. I'm going to call the police. It isn't safe, having such a man around."

Aunt Agatha tried to open the door, but Emma had locked it and stuffed the key in her bosom.

"Oh, I wish Tom were here," she wailed. "He'd know what to do. I'm afraid of what that man will do."

Aunt Agatha was more curious than her face showed. She saw that Emma was frightened, and was willing, for a time at least, to humor her.

"Don't be silly, Emma. Roy's harm less. He wouldn't hurt a flea. Just because the boy's not mentally alert there's no need to set him down as a raving maniac. Besides," she added, "my brother Tom will be here any day now. Goodness knows I've been expecting a letter for more than a week."

* * *

Aunt Agatha retired to the privacy of her bedroom and began to think. She remembered him in his younger days.

There had been a sort of rivalry between Roy and Paul Shelley for Agatha's hand. Perhaps, thought Aunt Agatha, perhaps—there was a possibility—that the old love affair might in a way be responsible for his present mental condition. Perhaps the thing was coming to life in his mind again.

Twice more within the next three days Roy Huckleworth called at the Spencer home and asked to see Aunt Agatha. And each occasion Emma positively refused admittance and shamed and locked the door.

To make matters worse, no letter came from Agatha's brother Tom. But, Emma, with a little stretch of her imagination, connected the two and declared that Roy was responsible for Tom's delayed arrival. She turned on the police, as instances that were overcome by Aunt Agatha's flat refusal.
